

High Court ruling to hurt parochial schools?

by KATHERINE BOYCE
Northwest suburban parochial schools that use some public-school services at no charge will be forced to find an alternative system under a ruling Monday by the U.S. Supreme Court.

In a 6-to-3 ruling on a Pennsylvania case, the court invalidated loans of instructional materials such as projectors or laboratory equipment to private schools and also said public schools may not provide them with free speech therapy, remedial reading or other special-service programs taught by public school teachers.

Many parochial schools in the Northwest suburbs have been making use of public school services for years and now will have to find another way to provide their children with special programs and instructional equipment in budgets already stretched to the limit.

Leo Athas, legal adviser to the Illinois Office of Education, said in his opinion the ruling means that free use of public school services is no longer allowed but private schools may still be able to use the services if the school or the parents pay for them.

THE RULING, as it reads, would put the private schools "out of business," he said. The state board of education has been expecting the court ruling, said Athas, and it is already working on procedures for private use of public school services.

Our Lady of the Wayside School, Arlington Heights, is an example of one parochial school that uses public school programs. Children now attend speech-therapy classes one period a week at Park School across the street. The classes are provided to

Our Lady of the Wayside students free and teachers are paid by Arlington Heights Dist. 25.

If the public school can no longer provide the service "we would have to provide it or ask parents to transfer children to public schools," said principal Guy Bernacchi. The school does not have the funds to provide the service itself. "We just worked on our budget and we are out of money already," he said.

"I don't think the schools themselves are entitled to anything from the government," said Bernacchi, but

"I feel the parents have a right to services from the community." If a child needs psychological testing, therapy or programs for learning disabilities Bernacchi said he feels it is "up to the state to provide it" because parents support the public schools through property taxes.

Sister Connie, principal of St. Stephen School, Des Plaines, said, "We can't afford psychological services. It just couldn't be part of our budget." The parochial schools may now have to use volunteers for special services, (Continued on Page 2)

Clash looms over code violations

Elk Grove Village officials plan to pressure Centex Homes Corp. to correct suspected building-code violations in an estimated 1,700 Centex homes.

A special meeting of village department heads and trustees has been called for 7 p.m. May 27 to plot strategy to force the firm to comply with building codes in houses with faulty furnaces.

Village Mgr. Charles Willis said of the session: "We plan to confront Centex Homes Corp. officials on the issue of building-code violations and have been waiting for the heat exchanger-replacement program to be completed."

"Our building department and other department heads will review evidence we have gathered that we believe proves building-code violations exist," Willis said.

"This action is in line with the board's statements months ago that we would wait to discuss code violations after the builder finished a heat-exchanger replacement program."

THE VILLAGE building department cited building and furnace-code violations as "a contributing cause" in an investigation of furnace failures in some 1,700 Centex homes.

The department compiled a list of violations in 28 models of Centex homes, but the builder refused to accept responsibility for the alleged violations.

But the builder, under pressure from village officials, agreed to a massive furnace inspection and defective furnace parts-replacement program, which is nearing completion.

Western Heating and Air Conditioning Co., Maywood, was hired by Centex to replace defective furnace parts in homes that participated in the inspection program. The firm replaced heat exchangers and repaired furnaces in about 35 per cent of the more than 1,000 homes checked.

WILLIS SAID the replacement of bad parts and repair program was a life-safety factor.

"We will now take up the issue of building-code violations we will insist be corrected," Willis said. Centex officials have not been invited to attend the meeting.

"It's a briefing and strategy session; we will talk to the builder later," said Willis. The meeting will be in the Municipal Building, 901 Wellington Ave.

Seniors can get driver aid

Elk Grove Township is sponsoring a refresher course to enable senior citizens to successfully complete their driver-renewal examination.

Alvin Ochlerking, 113 S. Elm St., Mount Prospect, and Milton Barndt, 40 Woodcrest Ln., Elk Grove Village, again will conduct the course at the Elk Grove Township Hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, Wednesday and May 28, and June 4 from 9 a.m. to noon.

MARINES MAX JONES, left, and Kenneth Hibberd, right, talk with an unidentified man Monday as divers search Beck Lake in North-

boat with Kottke at the time of the incident, police said.

Marine, 24, drowns in Beck Lake

by STEVE BROWN

An afternoon outing ended in tragedy Monday when a 24-year-old Marine drowned while boating on Beck Lake near Des Plaines.

Forest Preserve District rangers said William Kottke drowned after falling out of a canoe. Fire department divers from several communities worked into the night trying to find Kottke's body. The incident occurred about 1:45 p.m. Divers halted the search about 7:30 p.m. because of darkness. They will resume the work today.

Kottke was stationed at the Glenview Naval Air Station. Beck Lake is at Central and East River roads in Northfield Township.

He was apparently canoeing with four other servicemen when he fell out of the boat. Officials at the Marine headquarters declined to provide any information about Kottke until the drowning was confirmed.

Witnesses told Sheriff's police and forest rangers that the group had been in the lake for some time when the incident occurred.

KENNETH HIBBERD, 23, another Marine, said Kottke was in his canoe, but got into another boat with Max Jones when Hibberd went to shore to pick up life jackets.

Witnesses said Kottke was not wearing a life jacket. They told police he did not know how to swim.

While the Marines said Kottke fell into the lake, Eugene Gallagher, forest preserve district superintendent, said he was told the group had been swimming in the lake.

"My mounted forest ranger had been yelling at them from the shore for a half hour, telling them to get out of the water, and they did not listen," Gallagher said.

He said boaters frequently tip their boats to swim. Swimming is not allowed at Beck Lake.

He said the rangers check boaters to be sure they are wearing life jackets before entering the lake, but he said the group apparently left the jackets on a small island in the lake, which is about 200 yards wide.

THE INCIDENT was the third reported drowning at Beck Lake in recent years. In past incidents, divers have had difficulty searching the lake because the mud bottom limits visibility.

Divers searched for more than a week in 1972 for the body of a Glenview boy who tried to swim across the lake. Another man drowned there in 1973.

Forest rangers said the lake is up to 35 feet deep in some parts.

A&P closing 7 Northwest suburb stores

Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. grocery chain officials, attempting to overcome a $157.1 million loss for fiscal 1975, are closing one-third of their 3,500 stores nationwide, including seven in the Northwest suburbs.

The A&P store at Campbell Street and Wilke Road, Arlington Heights, is closing this week, manager Steve Gaska said. A&P stores at Arlington Heights and Palatine roads, Arlington Heights, and at Devon and Tonne roads, Elk Grove Village, will close this month, he said.

"It is our intention to reenter the area with stores in the 30,000-to 50,000-square-foot range, stores with complete food departments," said J. Ellis McDaniel, real estate director.

The new, larger stores will include more brand-name products and an expanded range of non-food items.

FIRST OF THE new area stores is at Dempster Road and Ill. Rte. 83, Mount Prospect. Another recently opened at Golf and Dee roads, Maine Township. Scheduled to open in 1977 is a store at the Old Madrid apartment complex, Hicks and Baldwin roads, Palatine.

The Wheeling store at Dundee Road and Ill. Rte. 83 closed last week and the Schaumburg store at Higgins and Golf roads closed two months ago. The Palatine store at Robertson Road and Northwest Highway shut down last September and the Mount Prospect store at Ill. Rte. 83 and Northwest Highway closed in February 1974.

The Des Plaines store at Oakton and Lee streets has not been notified that it will be closed, a spokesman said.

McDaniel said he could provide no more information on other new store sites.

"I'm negotiating for sites. I can't tell you what my plans are," he added.

High winds rip suburbs

High winds tore through the Northwest suburbs Monday night following a record-setting day of high temperatures and humidity. Official reports showed that a high of 94 degrees topped the previous high of 93 in 1963. Rain, followed by high winds broke the hot spell in the evening with one report showing that gusts up to 75 m.p.h. came through the suburbs, causing sporadic and minor damage.

Handgun bill killed

The Illinois House of Representatives late Monday killed a bill to ban the ownership of handguns for anyone but police, security guards and military personnel. The vote against the bill was 110-43.

Police service cutback?

Nonemergency calls and complaints are coming into the Mount Prospect Police Dept. so heavily that Chief Ralph Doney is considering cutting back on some services to handle the calls. Police statistics in April show the department handled a total of 1,302 service and complaint calls compared to 377 crime reports.

Panel to hear Guttilla case

The two-day suspension of Wheeling Police Chief Peter Guttilla will be brought before the village police and fire commission, the Wheeling village board decided Monday night. The board also authorized the village manager to hire an attorney to assist him when he brings charges against the chief before the commission. Guttilla had been suspended for two days by the village manager for intervening in a traffic case involving a relative of the chief's secretary.

Dispute leads to arrest

A Schaumburg man was arrested for threatening a man with a pipe following a neighborhood dispute late Sunday night. Police said Thomas F. Klein, 22, got out of his car and threatened Robert Meyer, 41, with a pipe after Meyer allegedly threw a bicycle in front of Klein's car to prevent it from speeding through the neighborhood.

she said. "We just couldn't offer those services unless there were somebody in the parish who is qualified and would volunteer."

PRINCIPAL James Burns of St. Mary's School, Des Plaines, said he knows of few private schools that could afford special services. "I think in the long run you could very well have some students who would be suffering. It would be a shame in my opinion to have students deprived of speech therapy and testing that is vital to them."

Career-college institute seeks summer pupils

Enrollment is still open for local high school sophomores and juniors who wish to enroll in a week-long Career/College Planning Institute this summer.

The institute will cover self evaluation, career exploration, family financial planning and a tour of 11 Midwestern Colleges in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Michael Mulligan, regional director for the American College Testing Service (ACT) will head the program. A choice of two different sessions, June 21-27, or Aug. 9-15, will be offered.

An information session for those interested will be offered Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Southminster United Presbyterian Church, East Central Rd. and Dryden Place, Arlington Heights.

The week will also include recreational activities including a canoe trip and overnight boat ride across Lake Michigan.

Cost is $190, which includes food, materials and all transportation. For further information, contact Mulligan, 498-2810, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Enrollment is limited. Registration closes May 30.

children from St. Theresa, Immanuel Lutheran and St. Colette schools and the schools also are allowed to share the district's film library. Children attend special classes in Dist. 15 on a part-time basis.

Parochial school students attend classes part-time in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 for special services on the junior high level. All parochial school students also are given free psychological services, speech therapy and tutorial services through the public school district.

DES PLAINES Dist. 62 provides free psychological services and speech correction to parochial school students and Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 provides speech correction, library book and also makes their school gymnasiums available for parochial school athletics.

The matter of aid to parochial schools now falls in the lap of the Illinois Board of Education, which will use the court's ruling on the Pennsylvania case to write rules and regulations governing use of public school property and services by private schools in Illinois.

The court ruling, which hinges on the First Amendment to the U. S. Constitution, bars laws "respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." The court ruled that loaning instructional materials or providing special services advances the establishment of religion and is therefore unconstitutional.

In a separate ruling yesterday the court upheld the loan of textbooks to private schools because the practice has been sanctioned and does not inject the state into church affairs.

The last days of Lindbergh

Death was as natural as his birth

by United Press International

Charles Lindbergh spent the last days of his life in a remote cottage near Hana, Maui, in Hawaii, planning his own simple burial. He rejected the medical paraphernalia which might have prolonged his life artificially.

In the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Milton M. Howell, a doctor in Hana, reported on how the famed Lone Eagle methodically handled his own death and made it into a constructive act.

CHARLES LINDBERGH (in 1972 photo) spent the last days of his life near Hana, Maui, Hawaii, planning his own simple burial.

During the preoperative examination in 1972 when he was 70 Lindbergh learned he had lymphoma, a fatal disease. Through radiation therapy, Lindbergh was still able to travel extensively, as far as the Philippines to promote the preservation of the monkey-eating eagle and to study the stone-age Tassaday tribe on Mindanao.

From time to time, reported Howell, Lindbergh returned to "his beloved Kipahulu Valley," on Maui to personally help clear a neglected graveyard beside a picturesque church built by Yankee missionaries. He also made the legal arrangements for his burial there and selected his own grave site.

The progress of the disease hospitalized Lindbergh for several months. Finally in August 1974, he telephoned Hana from New York.

"This is Charles Lindbergh," he said, "I have had a conference with my doctors, and they advise me that I have only a short time to live. Please find me a cottage or a cabin near the village. I am coming home to Maui."

He made the 5,000-mile trip in a motor and spent his last eight days in a cabin overlooking the sea with two nurses, his family and Howell.

The Maui doctor wrote:

"He was elated for the first few days. His appetite improved. His fluid intake was adequate. There were regular morning conferences with the ranch superintendent to give instructions and receive reports on the progress of the construction of his grave and the building of his simple coffin. He planned his funeral service along with his family and requested that people attend in their work clothes."

"His days were full. There was time for reminiscing, time for discussion and time for laughter. As his lungs filled, he required oxygen from time to time, and codeine, 15 mg as necessary. Finally, he lapsed into a coma and died 12 hours later.

"He wanted no respirator, defibrillator, or other complicated paraphernalia. None was available. He received excellent, prompt, responsible nursing care, oxygen when needed, a minimum of analgesia, and a great deal of love and consideration from his family and the medical staff."

"He stated that he wished his death to be a constructive act in itself. His example of simplicity, his careful planning, his unfailing politeness and consideration of those around him, his public refusal of medical heroics, and his humble funeral are evidence of that wish."

"Death was another event in his life, as natural as his birth had been in Minnesota more than 72 years before."

Ford to veto bill restricting strip mines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will veto federal strip-mining legislation because of its effect on domestic coal production and unemployment, federal energy administrator Frank Zarb said Monday.

Zarb told a White House briefing that the bill could reduce production by between 40 and 182 million tons annually, and cost up to 38,000 jobs during the first year after enactment.

In Illinois, Russell Dawe, director of the Department of Mines and Minerals said the strip mine bill would encourage the use of Illinois coal — but would drive some small operators out of business. Illinois has more than 25 strip mines, which produce slightly less than half the state's coal.

White House Press Secretary Ron

Nessen said Ford has not signed the official veto message yet, but would do so before the midnight deadline today.

The decision was made in the face of strong indications that environmentalists had enough support in both houses of Congress to override a veto.

The energy chief did not go into detail on what provisions of the bill Ford objected to, but Zarb emphasized that enactment of the bill would increase the nation's dependency on foreign oil and would only feed "a deteriorating situation" for the nation's energy supply.

"There's little question in my mind that our energy situation is deteriorating day by day," Zarb said.

In other action affecting energy, the Federal Energy Administration is going ahead with work on President Ford's plan to lift price controls from oil, Zarb said.

"The nation cannot afford to wait indefinitely for the Congress to enact a decontrol plan of its own," Zarb said.

Zarb said the FEA has received public comments and is working on details of the President's proposed two-year phaseout of oil controls.

In other action on Capitol Hill:

• The Senate voted 41-40 Monday to lift the embargo on U.S. military aid to Turkey.

Passage of the legislation, which now goes to the House, was designed to strengthen Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger's bargaining position when he meets with Turkish and Greek leaders Wednesday and to boost President Ford's stance at the NATO summit meeting late this month.

The ban, in effect since Feb. 5, cannot be lifted unless the House passes similar legislation.

• President Ford Monday sent Congress long-anticipated proposals to provide up to $2 billion in federal loans to rehabilitate railroads, and to ease the federal regulatory restraints on railroad rates.

The bill is the first of a series of legislative proposals Ford plans to lessen the power the Interstate Commerce Commission and other federal regulatory agencies hold over the nation's railroads, truck lines, airlines and waterways.

• Backers of a $32 billion weapons procurement bill successfully turned back initial efforts to reduce the authorization measure and the House put off until Tuesday a final vote on the measure.

Form panel to speed refugee resettlement

As the total of Indochina refugees in this country increased to 127,000, President Ford Monday created a special committee to speed resettlement. The panel will be headed by former ambassador John Eisenhower, son of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower. The Defense Department, meanwhile, announced the opening of another refugee reception center at the Indiantown Gap Army reservation near Harrisburg, Pa.

The anesthesiologists' slowdown spread to Sacramento and Southern California Monday while the legislature met in a special session to seek a solution to soaring malpractice insurance rates. At least 32 hospitals in the Los Angeles area were affected. In Sacramento about 60 anesthesiologists walked out Monday and were supported by many surgeons.

Laos commies nearing detained Americans

Student demonstrators detaining 12 Americans in Savannakhet, Laos, said Monday four battalions of Communist troops are on their way to the central Laotian town. Other reports said the troops, tanks and trucks had moved to within 120 miles of Savannakhet. U.S. officials said the 12 Americans — six or eight of them U.S. officials and the others dependents — were safe and moving about the city under a limited form of house arrest.

The Observer has been served notice it must pay for water, oil and food before it can be allowed to leave.

President won't hide final Koh Tang casualty count

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford still is awaiting a final count on U.S. casualties in the Mayaguez rescue operation on Koh Tang — put at five dead so far — and he will not "hide any bad news," the White House said Monday.

Press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford was "somewhat puzzled" and "frustrated" by the Pentagon's problems in determining the toll from last Wednesday's recovery of the American freighter and its crew from Cambodian forces.

"But there's never been any intention at any time to hide anything in terms of casualties," Nessen said. "The President regrets all the casualties and one casualty is too many. The figures will be put out."

Nessen told reporters that he had been advised that the Pentagon would be providing updated information shortly after the President had indicated his dissatisfaction and concern about the delays. But a short time later, Defense Department spokesman Joseph Laitin said a "preliminary final count" had to be put off until Tuesday.

In Bangkok, meanwhile, Thailand accepted a note of regret from the United States as a formal apology, ending the diplomatic crisis over the use of Thai-based U.S. Marines to recover the American freighter Mayaguez from Cambodia.

The formal note of regret was delivered to Foreign Minister Chatchai Choonhavan by U.S. charge d'affaires Edward Masters.

"The case is closed," Chatchai said after the note was delivered. "We consider the note . . . as a formal apology."

In other Mayaguez developments Monday:

• The American freighter sailed for Hong Kong at noon on the four-day run to the British crown colony of Hong Kong.

• Marine Maj. Gen. Kenneth J. Houghton hailed the Marine assault on Cambodia's Tang island as a boost to military morale. He said the operation was a success despite the heavy casualties.

"At the risk of sounding like a warmonger, I would describe it as an elixir for morale," said Houghton, commander of the 3rd Marine Division. "These young Marines have been training and want to get out and do a job."

19 injured as tornado rips Minnesota area

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — At least 19 persons were injured and 15 trailer homes destroyed Monday in a tornado that struck north suburban Mounds View and Fridley, the site of a devastating tornado 10 years ago.

The Mounds View trailer court was hardest hit and rescue workers used heavy equipment to sift through the wreckage. "We need to check to see if there are any dead or trapped persons," Ramsey County Sheriff Kermit Hedman said.

Mounds View Police Chief Ernie Grabowski estimated that 75 per cent of the trailer homes in the court received minor to heavy damage.

John Craseman, a retired 72-year-old Merchant Marine seaman, said: "I've seen storms in the North Atlantic, but I've never seen a wind blow as strong as this on the land," he said.

In Madison, Wis., high winds ripped roof sections off buildings. Five persons were injured, mainly from flying glass thrown by the 50 to 60 m.p.h. winds.

• Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., says he has raised $1.4 million in his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination, and will decide this fall which state primary races he will enter.

• Deaths: Avery Brundage, the 20-year president of the International Olympic Committee who fought most of his life to keep amateur sports free of professionalism, was buried Monday in Chicago. Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and John Corbally, president of the University of Illinois, attended the services. Memorial services for Brundage, who died May 8, were held in Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, but he was flown here for burial . . . Willard Johnson, great grandson of the founder of the Johnson and Johnson medical supply company, was fatally injured Monday in the crash of his motorcycle in Santa Monica, Calif. Johnson was 22.

MAJ. GEN. KENNETH Houghton, commander of 3rd Marine Division, presents Purple Heart to R. J. Hughes of Louisville, Ky. Hughes sustained burns on right arm when helicopter exploded on way to Koh Tang island. Sgt. Victor Salinas, center, of Corpus Christi, who was on same copter was similarly honored.

Israeli chief attacks U.S.-Jordan arms deal

By United Press International
Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon lashed out against the United States Monday for making arms deals with Jordan while withholding weapons from Israel.

His attack coincided with a previously unannounced six-hour visit by Jordanian Premier Zeld Rifai to Damascus for what a diplomatic source called "highly important and secret military and political talks" with Syrian President Hafez Assad.

The Arab chiefs of staff met at Arab League headquarters in Cairo Monday to draw up the agenda for next month's Arab summit in Mogadishu, Somalia. The closed session was chaired by Lt. Gen. Mohammed Ali Fahmi — Egypt's chief of staff and the league's assistant secretary general for military affairs. No details were disclosed.

Relations between Syria and Iraq, however, worsened with the state-run Damascus Radio accusing the Iraqis of executing six persons and arresting scores more opposing Iraq's recent border agreement with Iran. The two Arab nations are feuding over the waters of the Euphrates River.

In the occupied West Bank of Jordan, an explosion near a refugee camp on the Bethlehem-Hebron road killed a mother and her teenage daughter and injured three other children, security sources said. The blast appeared to have been caused by a bomb but further details were not given.

The explosion, the latest in a sudden upsurge of violent incidents, coincided with a "disciplinary" crackdown on two West Bank towns suspected of harboring Arab guerrillas, a military spokesman said.

The Tel Aviv spokesman said the residents of Ramallah and the nearby town of Albirah will no longer be allowed to cross over from the occupied territory into Jordan. The towns will be banned to travellers and a number of shops will be closed.

Kissinger: some progress on nuclear treaty

VIENNA (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said Monday night he and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko have made "some progress" toward an offensive nuclear arms treaty.

At the end of the first of three meetings the two diplomatic chiefs were holding in 18 hours, Kissinger told reporters, "We had a general review of the situation. We discussed the European Security Conference and began a discussion of SALT (Strategic Arms Limitation Talks). The discussion was constructive and was conducted in a friendly atmosphere."

"Did you two make progress on SALT?" asked a newsman. "Some progress was made," Kissinger replied and threw an arm around Gromyko. The Russian smiled.

Saigon celebrates on 'Uncle Ho's' birthday

• Residents of Saigon Monday celebrated the 85th birthday of the late "Uncle Ho" — President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam — small groups paraded throughout the city with firecrackers and a rare dragon dance on the grounds of the presidential palace.

• First Lady Betty Ford, who is on the West Coast to be honored as a distinguished woman in the arts, Monday paid tribute to another woman — 106-year-old Pearl Williams, the nation's oldest foster grandparent. Mrs. Williams came to California about 70 years ago in a Conestoga wagon and since 1972 has worked every day in a Head Start Center on Pepperdine University campus.

• An Oriental "Wildman" who was captured in a Central Florida swamp over the weekend hanged himself in his jail cell Monday apparently because he found out authorities were trying to send him back to his native Taiwan. The man had been living on alligators, birds and swamp creatures

WORKMEN UNLOAD the contents of a semi-trailer that crashed on the Tri-State Tollway east of O'Hare Airport early Monday morning, injuring one motorist and tying driven by William G. Pfaff, Berwyn. The trailer overturned on the concrete divider wall near the O'Hare interchange.

Law would set malpractice limit

Malpractice awards would be limited to $500,000 under a bill debated Monday in the Illinois House.

Ready for passage, the bill also sets up a three-member medical-review board to screen malpractice suits. The board would consist of a doctor, a lawyer and a judge.

The board would conduct hearings at which the patient and the doctor being sued could call witnesses and present evidence. The board would decide if there are grounds for a malpractice trial.

If the board rules unanimously there is no basis for a malpractice suit but the patient goes to court anyway and loses, he could be made to pay court costs, the winning attorney's fees and expenses of the review board.

$12,000 theft at hotel

Two holdup men wearing convention identification cards robbed a cashier of $12,000 Monday at the Continental Plaza Hotel, Chicago. A hotel spokesman said one man, armed with an automatic pistol, walked into the cashier's office at the rear of the hotel and threatened the cashier until he got the money.

The hotel, on N. Michigan Avenue near the John Hancock building, is handling several small conventions, but the spokesman said he did not know what kind of identification tags the men were wearing. The National Restaurant Assn. is having a large convention in the city this week.

Senate puts off ERA vote

Illinois Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, said Monday he is postponing consideration of the Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution because the Senate has a full calendar. Partee said he has no firm date in mind for Senate consideration of ERA, which has passed the House, but said he wants to make sure he has enough votes for passage before bringing the resolution to the floor. The ERA was defeated by the Senate Executive Committee last week by an 11-4-8 vote, but Partee had said he would discharge the resolution from committee Tuesday so the full Senate could consider it. He said a number of Senate bills must be sent to the House this week and the schedule is full.

County jail probe narrows

An investigation into possible negligence that allowed 17 prisoners to escape last week from County Jail has been narrowed to four guards, Sheriff Richard J. Etrod said. He said one guard "left the door open" to a jail laundry room where the prisoners gouged a hole in a wall and escaped. Two tower guards and a supervisor who placed 102 prisoners in a jail corridor during a cell tier search also are being investigated, he said. Ten prisoners who escaped Wednesday have not been captured.

Indict ex-Chicago official

A former administrator for the Chicago Model Cities program was indicted by a county grand jury Monday on charges of soliciting to commit an armed robbery. Thomas Woods, 38, was assistant community administrator for the Model Cities Near North Side Progress Center until March, when he was arrested and charged with the crime. He is charged with soliciting an undercover state's attorney's agent to rob a messenger for the Heads and Threads Co.

Sears profits down

Sears, Roebuck and Co. reported Monday that its net income for the first quarter of 1975 was 60.8 per cent lower than the same period last year. Sears Chairman Arthur M. Wood said at the company's annual meeting that net income was $30.59 million during the first three months of the year.

"Consumer demand for goods has begun to firm up in recent weeks from the depressed levels of the first quarter, and a gradual upturn is expected," he said.

At the same annual meeting, the board of directors was accused by Sears employees and the National Organization for Women of discriminating against women and minority employees, and failure to pay some salesmen a living wage.

5 acts sign for state fair

Bobby Vinton, the Osmonds, Dionne Warwick, Danny Davis and the Nashville Brass and the rock group America have been signed for appearances at this year's state fair. Fair manager Paul King said he still is looking for a headline act to replace Olivia Newton-John, who canceled after signing to open the fair's grandstand shows Aug. 8. Other performers scheduled include Vicki Carr, John Davidson, Anita Bryant, George Kirby and country-western stars Donna Fargo, Bill Anderson and Billy (Crash) Craddock. All seats will be reserved this year and will be sold in advance.

'400 to die on highways'

Between 400 and 500 persons will die on the nation's highways during the Memorial Day weekend beginning Friday, the National Safety Council predicted Monday. The council also predicted up to 24,000 injuries over the three-day holiday.

Chicago firemen 'burned'

Firemen at Chicago's south side Engine Co. 51 are "burned up" over thefts from their station while they are out fighting fires. "We go out and try to save other people's furniture and we come back to find all of our stuff gone," said fireman Jack Tigler after the station house was looted for the second time in two weeks.

'3.5% school rolls drop won't hurt finances'

by JUDY JOBBITT

Projected attendance figures for Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 next year show a 3.5 per cent decline in enrollment.

Enrollment is projected at 10,524 students compared to 10,905 in October 1974.

Acting Supt. Roger Bardwell said the decreased enrollment will not adversely affect district finances.

The district receives state aid based mostly on enrollment, but Bardwell said it does not constitute a major portion of the district's revenue.

TIE BREAKDOWN according to schools shows elementary schools will be most affected by the declining enrollment, losing 417 students. Byrd and Clearmont schools in Elk Grove Village will lose the most students. Byrd will lose 59 students with 430 students expected and Clearmont will drop 58 to 397.

Other schools that will be affected by a major enrollment decline are: Devonshire School, Des Plaines, down 43 to 431 students; Einstein School; Des Plaines, 34 to 398 students; Forest View School, Mount Prospect; 44 to 404; Ruple School, Elk Grove Village, 55 to 475; and Salt Creek School, Elk Grove Village, 36 to 373.

The five junior high schools show a leveling off with 36 additional students expected next year. Holmes Junior High School, Mount Prospect, will have the greatest increase with 41 additional students.

Dempster Junior High School, Mount Prospect, shows an increase of 18 students and Lively Junior High School, Elk Grove Village, shows an increase of five students. Friendship Junior High School, Des Plaines, expects to lose 19 students and Grove Junior High School, Elk Grove Village, expects 9 fewer students.

AL STONE, assistant superintendent for personnel, said the declining enrollment in the elementary schools presents the district with several alternatives.

"Up until this point we had all we could handle to get enough schools and enough classrooms available. Now we can look at other options," he said.

One option the district has been considering is moving the sixth-grade students back into the elementary schools. Grades 6-8 have been taught in the junior high schools for about 10 years because the elementary schools were overcrowded and space was available in the junior high schools.

Acting Supt. Roger Bardwell is appointing a committee to investigate the possibility of moving sixth graders back into the elementary schools.

"The real concern is to try to determine where we can offer the best experiences for our sixth-grade students," Bardwell said.

HE SAID LIVELY and Holmes are the most overcrowded. Both schools were built to handle 500 to 550 students. Next year Lively expects 708 students and Holmes expect 784 students. Grove also was built to handle at most 1,000 students and will have about 1,100 students next year, he said.

Other alternatives that might be investigated by the committee include offering parents the option of having their sixth graders attend the elementary school, moving some junior high programs into available space in the elementary schools and grouping kindergarten to fourth grade and fifth through eighth grade in separate buildings.

Poppy day set Thursday

Poppy Day will be Thursday in Elk Grove Village. Members of the Elk Grove Village Veterans of Foreign Wars and its auxiliary will sell the poppies in shopping centers and at major intersections throughout the village.

A walk in the country

Members of the Service League for Handicapped Children invite all area adults to join them Tuesday, June 3, for their third annual tour of four homes in the Farmington-Long Grove area.

Set amid gently rolling hills with wooded vistas dotted by streams and lakes, the homes range from a contemporary house done in the earth tones to traditional with bold contemporary colors, a Cape Cod with eclectic mix in furnishings and an Early American colonial designed by Royal Barry Wills featuring many antiques.

Floral decorations have been donated by Bussie Florist of Mount Prospect, Mr. Frank of Arlington Heights, Nelson's Bo-Kay of Palatine and The Village Green of Barrington.

THE WALK, beginning at 10 a.m. and continuing until 3 p.m., provides free bus service to the houses from the parking area. Readers interested in tickets or information may call Mrs. Don Derebey, 253-3422 or Mrs. Richard Hellend, 359-0139. Tickets are $2.50 in advance, or $3 at the Farmington parking lot where guests will board buses.

Proceeds will go to the Willett Easter Seal Metropolitan Treatment Center which is available to anyone from the Chicago and suburban areas.

The Service League is a group of northwest suburban women who donate funds to purchase orthopedic equipment, to further speech, physical and occupational therapy and to help meet the salaries of the center's therapists.

"YOU CAN WEAR your best garden gown but be prepared to remove your shoes," suggest Mrs. Jay Whitlick and Mrs. Richard Hellend, both of Palatine, and Mrs. Donald Derebey, Arlington Heights, as they invite all home and garden buffs to the house walk sponsored by the Service League for Handicapped Children. The June 3 walk will include four homes in the Farmington-Long Grove area. From a central parking lot buses will transport guests to the home. Willett Easter Seal Center will benefit.

Can either wash or peel mushrooms

Dear Dorothy: Let's get the matter of mushrooms settled once and for all, drat it. Do people really WASH mushrooms, cook them and serve them UNPEELED? Ugh! I'm an old bachelor and veteran cook. Whenever I broil a nice thick fillet, I saute a few mushrooms to go with it. Instead of washing them, I remove and discard the stems and carefully peel each cap. Of course, this leaves quite a bit of skin on top, but that's easily scraped off. Easy as peeling a tomato

(which I don't peel, by the way). But my method eliminates washing. The dirt is gone with the skins. Surely, you don't eat that tough, old, leathery skin, do you? Do you suppose I have in restaurants? Ugh! Try peeling them some time. You'll find them much more tender. — Frederick V. Mancourt.

I peel them when they look dingy. Otherwise, I eat them with the skins on. I'll bet you've eaten a barrel of 'em in restaurants with skins on. Go on, make a face. Enjoyed them at the time, didn't you?

Dear Dorothy: I kept worrying about my distant daughter who is such a heavy sleeper she often doesn't hear morning alarm clocks. I'm relieved and moved to share with others in the same fix the remedy she has discovered — the advice to place the clock on a tin pan so that it comes on with clatter enough to wake anyone. — Mrs. Thomas Borash

Dear Dorothy: For all those who have the problem of keeping shoulder bags from slipping off their coats, the answer is a metal clip which pins onto the coat shoulder. Some department-store notions counters have them, as do some order catalogues. Not new, either. I've been using one for 20 years. — Margery Macconachy

Dear Dorothy: If a recipe calls for cream and you happen to be out, you can get away by using milk and a lump of butter. — Jan Meehan

Free booklet helps you save gas

Let's face it. No matter how you slice it, gas preservation will continue to be a way of life on this planet, and we might as well learn to live with it.

Does this mean we have to forego family vacations by car? Not exactly, says a spokesman for the American Automobile Assn., which hopes to get a copy of its "Gas Watchers' Guide" into the hands of every U.S. licensed driver this summer.

Glenn Lashley of the AAA says you and I, and every American motorist, can become a gas watcher and make five gallons of gasoline do the work of six.

It will take will power, Lashley says, and a personal commitment — but if we all work together, we can actually reduce oil imports by 1 million barrels a day! At the same time we will be helping to put the brakes on inflation and save ourselves some money to boot.

HERE ARE some of the suggestions the "Gas Watchers' Guide" has for saving fuel when we take that family vacation so necessary to our physical and psychological well-being.

• Vacation in an area where you won't need your car as much to get around when you arrive at your destination — a large metropolitan area, beach, or mountain resort.

• Look into the vacation possibilities within a smaller radius of your hometown.

• Combine your vacation with another family.

• Take a plane, train or bus to your destination and rent a car for any local driving you need to do.

• Keep your car in tip-top shape. Even minor tune-ups can improve mileage by 10 per cent. It has also been proved that tune-ups can result in an immediate 9 to 15 per cent improvement in gasoline mileage.

• When you take a long trip, start early in the morning to avoid heavy traffic and — in hot weather — minimize the need for your air conditioner. Time your driving to avoid rush hour traffic in urban areas, or plan your meal stops to coincide with these peak traffic periods.

• Keep your luggage to a minimum. Unnecessary extra weight in your trunk will cut fuel economy. Packing baggage on a roof rack also creates fuel-robbing air resistance.

• Always travel at moderate speeds. The ideal speed is under 55 m.p.h.

• Plan your vacation by car with a qualified travel counselor. AAA club travel counselors offer members detailed planning advice on such things as selecting vacation destinations, travel routes and tie-in transportation arrangements — all designed with gas saving in mind.

The "Gas Watchers' Guide" also includes suggestions on how you can save gas and money on those to-and-from work trips, daily family business trips and Mom's family chauffeur.

There are also sections on how to keep your car in the best possible condition — and a list of good driving techniques to help you save on fuel.

You will also find a handy "Mileage Minder" to help you budget your driving. After logging every trip you take in your car in a week's time you soon get a pretty good idea of your personal driving patterns and learn how you can cut out unnecessary trips.

For your free copy (or copies) of the "Gas Watchers' Guide," drop a postal card to American Automobile Assn., 8111 Gatehouse Rd., Falls Church, Va. 22042.

GAS SAVERS cut fuel costs by vacationing at destinations where a car is not necessary — like Grand Teton National Park, Wyoming, where you can hike, ride horseback, fish, or take a float trip down the Snake River.

Herald opinion

Palatine High keeps tradition

The Palatine High School Plrates have a long, grand tradition and the High School Dist. 211 board is to be congratulated for its action to preserve that tradition.

The board last week voted to close the building which has housed the school since 1928 and to pass along the name and traditions to a new school, to be built in the Winston Park subdivision of Palatine.

The action was well handled by the board, coming after several years of discussion during which local residents had plenty of time to become accustomed to the idea of the switch. The "new" Palatine High School will carry on the traditions which were begun in 1875 when a two-year high school program started in Palatine.

The action also opens up an opportunity for the school district, village government and other public and private service organizations in the village to cooperate to make the best possible use of the site of the old building at 50 E. Wood Street.

Already, Palatine Village

Pres. Wendell E. Jones has suggested that the village, park district and other groups might use the old building cooperatively.

The eventual use of the building will depend in part on the ability of various groups to renovate the structure. Whatever is done, however, the site and as much of the building as can be salvaged should be kept for public use.

The opportunity for cooperation on such a project is seldom offered to local officials on such a clear-cut issue. In addition, since the school will not close until 1977, everyone involved will have time to develop well-thought-out plans for the building's eventual fate.

The High School Dist. 211 board handled the decision to close Palatine with grace and wisdom. Now it is up to all the governmental agencies in the village to show as much foresight in planning for the future of the old building and its site.

Proper planning can ensure that the "old" Palatine High School will continue to serve the community for years to come.

Let's plan now for dropping enrollment

Just as High School Dist. 211 was finishing its deliberations on the fate of Palatine High School, High School Dist. 214 announced it is starting a study of its enrollment projections.

The study is an effort by the district to predict declining enrollment in that district. It will be completed in six months and may find population trends which will require closing one of the district's eight high schools by the early 1980's.

The Dist. 214 board is to be commended for commissioning the study now, before declining enrollments become a major problem in the district. Once the study is completed, they should look at the example of Dist. 211 as they decide what action must be taken.

If the study does show, as expected, that one of the district's schools should be closed because of declining enrollment, school officials should quickly begin the kind of dialog with the public that preceded Dist. 211's decision.

Dist. 214's problem will be complicated by the fact that there will not be an unnamed high school to take on the name and traditions of whatever high school is closed. This makes it all the more crucial that the problem be discussed with maximum candor with the community.

Whatever the outcome of the district's study, it is a good thing to start planning now for the future. For years, Dist. 214 has been planning for enrollment growth; the new era requires planning for declining enrollment.

She lauds accident help

I wish to say thank you publicly for the assistance my son was given, on April 23, by Officer Kenney of the Buffalo Grove Police Department. John was on a bicycle on Arlington Heights Road when he was sideswiped by a hit and run driver. The driver knew he had hit my son, because he gunned his motor and took off with wheels spinning. Fortunately, his injuries were not of a serious nature but very painful. Thank you, Officer Kenney, for your assistance.

Historical society applauds coverage

The Des Plaines Historical Society has had an active and eventful 1974-75 season. The success of our monthly general meetings, the 1974 country fair and flea market, the various arts and crafts classes, seminars and other activities was largely due to interest stimulated by photographs and articles published in your newspaper.

We send a sincere thank you for helping promote the programs which are provided for the people of Des Plaines by their local historical society.

Successful meeting

The Volunteer Service Bureau would like to thank the many people who made our annual meeting on May 7 such a warm, enjoyable evening: The Arlington Heights Park District who let us use the field house at Pioneer Park — the marvelously talented "Expressions" from Buffalo Grove High School and their teacher, Linda McEachran—Sylvia's Flowers for the beautiful centerpiece and bouquets donated — Karin Ahrens, our caterer, for donating her time and preparing such a delicious buffet — the members of our board of directors for their support and guidance — and our special volunteers of the year.

It was a great feeling to know so many people in our communities give freely of their time, respond when we call for help. Thank you again — may you receive bountifully that which you have given so generously to others.

He thanks reporter

I would like to commend The Herald, and in particular, Mrs. Pat Gerlach, for the press coverage my wife and the SCOPP party received during the recent campaign. I purposely refrained from writing until well after election day, so that you would be assured of my sincerity, and not mistake this letter for a political ploy. I am writing as an individual who was personally involved in the campaign, and am not to be considered a spokesman for the SCOPP party.

Throughout the past months I have had numerous conversations with Mrs. Gerlach. At all times she was straightforward concerning her intentions, and always respectful of any request for confidentiality. There were instances when I did not appreciate Mrs. Gerlach's opinions, but that was for the simple reason they did not agree with my own. At no time could I take exception with her objectivity.

I believe the high degree of professionalism Mrs. Gerlach has consistently demonstrated should be considered both a credit to your newspaper, and a service to the residents of Schaumburg. I hope that Mrs. Gerlach will continue to provide this service for a long time to come.

In Nevada, the testing continues

by MYRAM BORDERS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — If 444 nuclear bombs exploded in Rhode Island, there would not be much left.

That, in effect, is what the federal government has done to an equivalent-sized piece of Nevada. The damage is less spectacular because there wasn't much there to begin with.

It would take a nuclear war of catastrophic dimensions to unleash on the rest of the world the power and fury visited on a bleak area of 1,350 square miles in western Nevada.

Since the day the first experimental atomic device exploded in New Mexico to the devastation of Hiroshima and Nagasaki by the A-bombs that ended World War II, the rest of the world has lived with nuclear warheads as a theoretical worry.

The Nevada test site lives with the reality.

It has been "nuked" by bombs and warheads from the "baby" 14 kilotons to at least three of the megaton-class devices capable of obliterating vast cities in an instant. It has been blasted on the ground, above the ground and below the ground. Bombs have been detonated on towers, dropped from airplanes, planted deep in the earth, hung from balloons and fired from a cannon.

Of the 566 nuclear tests the United States has publicly acknowledged since 1945, 444 were conducted at the test site, put into operation in 1951. Since the 1963 treaty with the Soviets banning tests in the atmosphere, all of them have been underground.

In "Operation Cue" in 1955 a simulated village dubbed "survival town" was built. It had houses, factories, shelters, a complete electrical power system, a radio station, a bank and cars parked in the streets. Its inhabitants were dummies and it came equipped with a 500 foot tower mounting a nuclear explosive.

The device, packing a punch of 29 kilotons, the equivalent of exploding 29,000 tons of TNT, was detonated.

To nobody's surprise, there was little left of "Survival Town" when the mushroom cloud cleared — only skeletons of buildings, a twisted bridge framework and small bits of rusted metal that once were autos.

The test site was placed where it is because the area is virtually uninhabited.

It has no water running through to carry radioactive contamination to inhabited areas, it has favorable wind patterns and underground rock formations that help contain the force of the explosions. The biggest bombs get planted in the Pahute Mesa area, where volcanic rock melts under the blast heat underground and then cools into a sealed cavern.

The work force, which hit a peak of 10,000 scientists, technicians and laborers in 1968, is now down to 5,000, many of whom live in Las Vegas, about 100 miles to the south.

Big bombs can be felt there as earthquakes. But in the casinos, only the out-of-towners look startled — the veteran gamblers just keep dealing.

The most powerful explosion at the test site was a 1.2 megaton blast code named "Boxcar" in 1968. Howard Hughes tried unsuccessfully to get it canceled, complaining it would bother

The lighter side

Was Julius Caesar a conspiracy victim?

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON — A couple of decades ago many Americans were seeing Communists under every bed. Now it's conspirators who lurk beneath the innersprings.

The conspiracy theory of political assassinations in particular is going great guns.

Recently while a former CIA director was being questioned in Congress about foreign assassinations, two congressmen were calling for new investigations of U.S. assassinations.

These events were preceded by an outbreak of books and a full length motion picture setting forth various conspiracy theories.

Additionally, the lecture circuit is teeming with speakers on this subject and something called the Assassination Information Bureau is preparing to publish a monthly magazine.

Given this climate, it was perhaps inevitable that someone would come up with a new theory about the assassination of Julius Caesar.

And that has now been done by C. Howard McToga, author of "Conspiring to Conspiracy — the Hand Behind the Hands that Held the Daggers."

"It is well known that Caesar was the victim of a conspiracy," McToga told me at an autographing party at which I was the only guest. "But that conspiracy was only a cover for the real conspiracy."

"You mean that an overt conspiracy was used to conceal a covert conspiracy?" I interposed.

"Exactly. Historians would have us believe the conspirators who stabbed Caesar to death did so because they suspected he intended to make himself king."

"But when you look at all the evidence, you have trouble buying that motivation."

"As I point out in my book, Caesar repeatedly denied having any kingly ambitions and, in fact, refused the crown when Mark Antony offered it to him."

"Brutus, Cassius and the other assassins had to have been aware that Caesar was no monarchist. So they must have had another reason for doing him in.

"In that connection, who stood to gain the most from Caesar's death?"

I said, "Is it your theory that Mrs. Caesar had him killed for the insurance?"

"No! No! This was no sordid domestic homicide. Caesar was the victim of international intrigue involving the CIA."

"The CIA?"

"Right. The Cleopatra Intelligence Agency. After Caesar conquered Egypt, Queen Cleopatra's secret agents made contact with his enemies in Rome."

"Their aim was to 'destabilize' Caesar, but something was lost in translation and the conspirators only understood the 'stab' part."

I said, "Congratulations, McToga. Looks like you've got a best-seller on your hands."

The almanac

Today is Tuesday, May 20, the 140th day of 1975 with 235 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Taurus.

The German-American inventor of the microphone, Emil Berliner, was born May 20, 1851.

On this day in history:

• In 1506, Christopher Columbus died in Spain.

• In 1927, Charles Lindbergh began his solo flight from New York to Paris in the "Spirit of St. Louis" monoplane. He landed in the French capital 33½ hours later.

• In 1963, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that sit-in demonstrations were legal.

• In 1974, Judge John Sirica ordered President Nixon to turn over tapes and other records of 64 White House conversations on the Watergate affair.

A thought for the day: American writer Charles Dudley Warner said, "What small potatoes we all are, compared with what we might be."

RAPIDLY CLOSING A&P stores mark downtown Mount Prospect and older sections of many Northwest suburban communities. New

A&Ps opened in Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and one planned in Palatine follow the demise of locations in Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Palatine and Schaumburg.

Neighborhood food store — an endangered species?

by DOUG HAY

Early Monday, hundreds of discount-hunting housewives stood in line outside the grocery store ready to scramble for a bargain.

The A&P store, Campbell Street and Wilko Road, Arlington Heights, is going out of business and everything in the place — except the meat, which already was gone — is being sold at 20 per cent off. And by midday the store already was out of business.

Inside, shoppers roamed the aisles. Many didn't have carts because they were all being used. They raised their sunglasses, peered at the price tags and quickly made the 20 per cent deduction.

Canned vegetables were being purchased by the dozens. An hour wait to get to the checkout counter was common, and some decided the wait wasn't worth it. They discarded sacks full of groceries throughout the building.

IT WAS A hectic day at the A&P, and for Fran Maher of Arlington Heights it meant the end of her neighborhood store, and she didn't like it.

"They had the best meat here. The butcher was so accommodating," she said. "These large stores can't give you that kind of service. I feel very badly about the store closing."

"We're working people and we don't go to the grocery store for entertainment. We want service and they can't give you that kind of treatment in the larger stores."

Her 83-year-old mother, who shopped at the store for 15 years, also was disappointed at its closing. "I can't stand the larger stores. They make me so tired I can't see straight," she said.

MANY OF THE former A&P employees — who knew the residents of the Westgate subdivision of Arlington Heights and nearby residents of Rolling Meadows — are working at other area A&P stores. Saturday is the final day of business at the Campbell Street location.

"Believe it or not, some of the people are sad we're leaving," said acting manager Steve Gaska.

"A&P will probably be back in the area," said district manager Anton Kaiser. He has been with the company for 42 years, has worked through trend after trend in grocery-buying habits and has altered retailing methods each time because of them. "You can only exist now by sheer volume," he said, indicating that the days of the neighborhood store are numbered. "You have to make a profit. A grocery store is no different than any other business."

"The small stores like this one are obsolete," Kaiser said. "It's just one of those things and we have to go for new stores like the one in Mount Prospect" in the Venture complex, Dempster Street and Elmhurst Road. "With the union wages and the overhead, we can't afford the small stores anymore."

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Acid causes excess saliva

Good day to you. I hope you can give me some much needed advice. I am having pains in my stomach. The doctor says I have an ulcer of the duodenum and two small ones in the stomach.

My problem is that I form a lot of saliva in my mouth and I have to swallow many times per minute, which is embarrassing. When I close my mouth it becomes a river, and when I laugh I have to swallow. I was on Probanthine but recently I was changed to another medicine and since then my whole body is feeling tired without doing anything.

My doctor said my ulcers should be OK after he looked into my stomach a few days ago. I had this swelling problem about two years before my ulcers were discovered.

I would appreciate it if you could tell me what is causing all my problems. I am an 18-year-old male. I need help badly.

I can appreciate your problem. Formation of excess saliva is fairly common in the presence of an ulcer. It may be a reflex action related to the excess formation of the acid digestive juices in your stomach. These acid digestive juices are part of the cause of your ulcer. We don't see ulcers in young men without some increase in stomach acid.

Usually Probanthine and atropine-like medicines will cause the saliva to dry up. I wonder if you were taking a sufficient amount. These medicines block the nerve to the stomach that stimulates the formation of acid digestive juices. That is why they are often used in treating ulcers.

The doctor must have been satisfied that you had simple ulcers with no important complications and that was why he told you that your ulcers would heal.

I suspect that you were already producing an excess of acid digestive juice before your ulcers were diagnosed and that is why you were already forming too much saliva.

DUODENAL ULCERS were fairly uncommon in 1900. Now a high percentage of men have them. This probably reflects the increase in stress in our living patterns and the bad habits that go along with modern life. Men have ulcers much more frequently than women. I won't go so far as to say that modern women drive men to have ulcers, but it is a fact that ulcers were more common in women than in men in 1900.

You will need to do some adjusting of your personal life to avoid ulcer problems or even to minimize them.

You should talk to your doctor about your excess saliva problem. And you should avoid cigarettes, alcohol, coffee, tea, colas and chocolate.

A little self-analysis of the stressful aspects of your life might help. Stress seems to be a major factor in causing ulcers. Often ulcers will not heal or will recur if stress is at the bottom of the whole problem. The type of stress involved is related to a great need to achieve, which causes the person to put himself under great pressure.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Make 10s, 9s work for you

Anyone can take a trick with an ace. Almost anyone can put his kings, queens and jacks to work. The expert goes further and works with 10s, 9s and sometimes even lower cards.

South's normal tendency is to play the king or queen of spades from dummy at trick one. East will take his ace and undoubtedly will shift to the king of clubs. Later South will get to discard either a diamond or club on dummy's other high spade. But that one discard will be completely useless and the defense will score another victory.

South can make the contract easily by just putting the nine and 10 of spades to work.

He plays dummy's deuce of spades at trick one. East wins a cheap trick with the jack and shifts to that same king of clubs.

South takes his ace; plays the king and queen of trumps. He overtakes the queen with dummy's ace and leads dummy's king of spades.

East can do no better than to play his ace. South ruffs, enters dummy with a third trump and discards two clubs on the two good spades. He still loses two diamond tricks, but he has made the contract.

ERA debate: he's in favor, she's against

A male-female debate on the Equal Rights Amendment will be conducted in Arlington Heights Friday night.

However, the male, Richard A. Cowen of Arlington Heights, will argue the case for ERA, while the female, Phyllis Schlafly of Alton, Ill., will argue against the amendment.

The debate is being sponsored by the Elk Grove Township Regular Republican Organization and is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Elk Grove Township Hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Schlafly, widely known anti-ERA spokesman, is an author, lecturer, television and radio commentator and newspaper columnist.

Cowen, former Wheeling Township Republican committeeman, is attorney for several townships in the Northwest suburbs, a member of the Township Laws Study Commission and a former member of the Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission.

The public is invited to attend the debate, said Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Township GOP committeeman.

Distributors to collect liquor tax

Wholesale liquor distributors will be responsible for collecting the new county liquor tax when it goes into effect July 1, the County Board decided Monday.

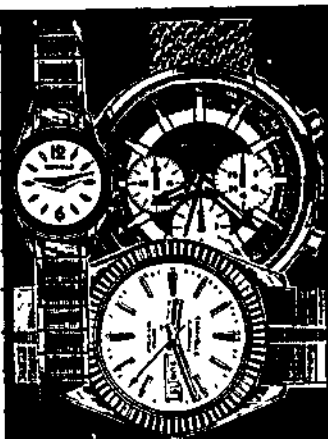

Liquor retailers told the board the tax would be unworkable and they still oppose it, even with the amendment to require collection by the wholesalers instead of the retail outlets.

Comr. Harold Tyrrell of LaGrange Park proposed the change to reduce the county's costs in administering the tax. The amendment was approved unanimously.

Robert G. Pressman, general counsel for the Illinois Wholesale Liquor Dealers Assn., said the tax could lead to elimination of the county's home-rule powers. He said signatures already are being collected to force a recall referendum on the county home-rule status, and the industry also plans to challenge the tax in U.S. District Court.

Republican Commissioners Floyd T. Fulle, Carl R. Hansen, Ronald R. Larson and Tyrrell opposed the original tax but supported the amendment Monday because they believe it will make the tax more workable, they said.

The tax has been set at $1 per gallon for liquor, 4 cents a gallon for beer, 12 cents a gallon on wine containing up to 14 per cent alcohol by volume, and 30 cents a gallon on wine with higher alcoholic content.

Area teams bow out in state play

A HERALD STAFF REPORT

The 11-team Mid-Suburban League will be a spectator to the 1975 Illinois High School baseball finals with Arlington and Palatine the last two clubs to bow out of the playoffs Monday afternoon at the regional championship level.

CRUSADERS OUST CARDS

Arlington's bid for the Ridgewood Regional title was rejected by hard-hitting Holy Cross, 8-2. The Cards will now concentrate on maintaining their first-place lead in the league's North Division.

Cross came out swinging against Arlington ace righthander Dar Townsend and peppered the off-speed specialist for seven runs over the first three innings to put the decision away early.

Arlington also was victimized by some of its own mistakes as misjudged fly balls, errant baserunning, boots in the infield and four walks helped provide the sting of the knock-out punch.

The Crusaders struck for three runs in the opening frame when a leadoff triple, a walk, a bad-hop triple and a misplayed single plated all that unbeset lefthander Larry Funsch (6-8) needed to boost Cross' overall mark to 15-6.

The Cards cut the margin to 3-1 in the second on Townsend's booming triple up the left-center power alley and John Vukovich's RBI single up the middle, but the Crusaders matched it in the bottom of the inning on two singles sandwiched around a sacrifice.

Cross applied a three-run clincher in the third that eventually chased Townsend who had hurled a 3-2, no-walk, 11-strikeout masterpiece against Rolling Meadows on Saturday.

A walk, three singles and a two-base error opened the flood gates again before John Martins came on and slammed the door over the next two frames before yielding the final run of the game in the top of the sixth.

Arlington, meanwhile, showed signs of rallying into contention which they had done so successfully in shading Meadows two days earlier.

Matt Splitz reached on an error and Don Stebbins singled with nobody down in the fifth. And when Jerry DeSimone singled after a strikeout to slice the deficit to 7-2, the Cards were still alive.

But a baserunner overran the bag at second and the next hitter fanned before the heart of the order had a chance to swing the bat.

Holy Cross closed out the scoring in the sixth on a bunt single, a stolen base and a double that dropped Arlington's record to 13-4.

PALATINE LOSES SLUGFEST

The Palatine Pirates traded punches with a hard-hitting Wheaton-Warrenville nine before dropping a 13-9 slugfest Monday in the final game of the Lake Park Regional baseball tournament. The victory puts the Wolverines, 15-7, into the sectional round at Dundee.

The Pirates of coach Al Berman took advantage of two walks by Wolverine starter Bill McDaniel, a pair of errors, and base hits by Greg Meyer, Jeff Williams, and Jim Maycan to take a 5-3 lead in the bottom of the second. Maycan's single through the hole at shortstop drove home the go-ahead runs.

But Wheaton fought back with a run in the third off Palatine starter Mark Menke on two walks and a pop fly single by Gary Potter. The Wolves tied the score in the fourth on a walk, an error, and a wind-blown single by Vic Wayhan.

Wheaton took the lead in the fifth with an unearned run against Pirate reliever Tony Zera, but Palatine tied it in the bottom of the inning with a single by Dan McSweeney, a balk, a wild pitch, and a hit to deep short by Lon Snyder.

The roof caved in on Zera and the Pirates in the sixth. After McDaniel doubled to left with one out, a walk and an RBI single to right by Wayhan gave the Wolves a one-run lead. Then Walsh was walked purposely to load the bases and Jeff Sevenich blasted a long ground-rule double for two more runs.

Wheaton scored four more big runs in the seventh after two were out, three of them coming home on Welch's second triple of the game. The big first baseman had five RBIs.

Palatine battled back for three runs in the bottom of the inning, but it wasn't enough. Wheaton's Ken Brogie came in to put out the fire and save the win for McDaniel, who struggled most of the game.

The Pirates rapped out 11 hits and had the benefit of seven errors and six walks, but they left 12 men on.

Softball teams roll on offense

Six girls' softball teams scored in the 20's as offense ruled play in the Mid-Suburban Conference Thursday.

The biggest slugfest of all was at Arlington as Wheeling rallied and then held on to win an extra inning thriller, 23-20. Arlington's 11-run second inning was wasted as the Wildcats roared back to score 13 over the final five frames, breaking a tie in the top of the ninth with a three-run rally.

Carol Magnus was the hitting star, slugging in six runs with a homer and a 5-for-7 day at the plate. Jenni Schmuhl was the winning pitcher.

Despite two doubles by Kathy Gaus and single doubles by Patty Pinski and Cindy Wolsenfelder, Vicki Dale was tagged with the pitching loss. Both teams finished with 20 hits apiece.

Vikings, 'Cats gain on Cards; Mustangs take over South lead

A Herald Staff Report

Rolling Meadows marched into the South Division lead and Fremd and Wheeling closed in on idle (in league play) Arlington Monday afternoon in Mid-Suburban baseball.

The Mustangs of Meadows toppled Forest View, 10-8, to hike their South mark to 8-5 and move ahead of Prospect, a 6-5 loser to Fremd and now 9-7 in the standings.

In the North the Vikings of Fremd closed to within one game of Arlington with that win over Prospect. Fremd stands 10-5 and Arlington 10-3. Wheeling's Wildcats climbed to within one and one-half games of the top with a 6-5 conquest of Conant.

MUSTANGS BUCK FALCONS

Rolling Meadows erupted for four runs in the top of the sixth inning to outslug Forest View-10-8 and recapture the wild South Division race with an 8-5 record.

Trailing 5-4 upon entering the decisive inning, the Mustangs batted around on singles by Dave Bell and Bob Adamczyk preceding a sacrifice bunt by Tom Baugh and Paul Mar-sillo's sacrifice fly to center.

Guy Tenuta reached on an error, Mike Bramlett singled and winning hurler Bob Schmidt doubled before Forest View closed the door on the inning.

Meadows opened the scoring in the second on Bell's two-run homer, but Forest View matched it on Tom Lunnak's two-run single. The Mustangs added another in the third on an error and Schmidt's double and another run in the fourth on Bell's second of four hits and an error.

The Falcons tied the game at four in the fourth on a walk and singles by Chris Hanson and Jim Petran and took a short-lived lead on Ron Turner's run-producing base hit in the fifth.

DEPAULOS SPARKS VIKES WIN

Three straight singles in the seventh inning broke a 5-5 deadlock and allowed hosting Fremd to sneak past Prospect and drop the Knights out of their first place South Division berth.

Jeff Schroeder, Jim Van Meter and Carl DePaulos all connected for safeties off starter and loser George Savage with one away in the bottom of the seventh. For DePaulos, it was his third hit of the game and sent Schroeder across with the winning run for a 6-5 verdict.

The mound win went to Scott Orbin, third Vike pitcher of the afternoon. He helped his own cause with a homer over the left field fence after DePaulos had singled in the fifth.

Also depositing shots over wall in left were Van Meter and Jay Loos of the visitors. Van Meter connected with his to open a first inning rally that put two runs on the board. Fremd scored their other run with the help of a pair of Prospect miscues in the third.

Loos was responsible for three of the five Knight runs, driving in two with a double in the second and hitting his solo circuit shot in the sixth to tie the score at five-all. The other guest runs came on a pair of walks and had throw on a delayed double steal that went all the way to the fence.

'CATS OVERTAKE CONANT

Rich Reese was hit on the back of the head by a pitched ball with the bases loaded to force in the deciding run for the Wheeling Wildcats as they caught and passed the Conant Cougars 6-5 in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Conant was sitting on a 5-3 lead when the inning began, but an Al Newman double, an error, a pair of walks and a single by Rich Heredia pushed across the tying runs and left the bases loaded for Reese.

The Cougars had fought back from a 3-0 deficit with three runs in the fifth, aided by a pair of Wheeling errors and singles by Ron Sulaski and Bill Anderson.

A bases empty shot by Jim Cole and two more by Wheeling miscues and a controversial balk gave Conant two more the following inning.

John Miller got the win for Wheeling in relief.

SCHAUMBURG COASTS

Schaumburg sent a dozen men to the plate in the 3rd inning and scored seven times to break open their contest with Buffalo Grove and coast to a 12-4 victory that kept their hopes alive in the South Division race.

Bob Poplar's two-run homer following a walk triggered the third frame salvo and gave Saxon hurler Bob Connell a comfortable cushion en route to his fourth win of the season over-all. Schaumburg had moved on top quickly with two runs in the first and one in the second and the big rally put them up 10-0.

Other hitting heroes for the winners were Gary Frontier and Dave Jones with a pair of hits apiece. Jones drove in a trio of runs with a bases loaded single in the third and a triple. Joe Cerrito also connected for a bases empty homer for Schaumburg.

The Bison trailed 11-1 going into the fifth when Dave Smithern trimmed the deficit by connecting for a bad bounce homer with two mates aboard. Tim Tatge, the first of two Buffalo Grove hurlers, absorbed the loss.

The Huskies, now 3-15, broke a 4-4 tie with a two-run single by Chuck Veselits in the fifth. A sacrifice fly by Don Bianchi drove in the eventual winning run in the sixth.

Hoffman appeared on the verge of a big inning in the fifth when starting and winning pitcher Gary Hart loaded the bases, but Huber struck out the side.

Hersey started fast with three in the first on RBI hits by Dave Carey, Jim Lococo and Hart. Hart made it 4-0 in the third on a homer at the windy diamond.

The Hawks, now 7-8, used back-to-back homers by Joe Parille, his a two-run shot, and Randy Brown in the third and an RBI single by Mark Mueller in the fourth to tie it.

Maine West collects 21 runs in romp over Niles

It was never close.

Buoyed by three home runs, which included Bob Smith's sixth inning grand slam, and 11... count 'em... 11 Niles East errors, Maine West pounded the blundering Trojans, 21-5, Monday afternoon in Central Suburban baseball.

Warrior senior Al Mueller pitched the entire fracas to win, his fifth success against one defeat. Mueller was sharp with six strikeouts and no walks.

West scored in just three innings, getting four runs in the first, eight in the fourth and nine in the sixth.

Their first inning splurge was aided by Glen Watson's solo home run. Niles scored once off Mueller in the second but Maine moved ahead 12-1 after four.

Reserves scored the nine final runs. Smith's grand slam home run and Doug Unzelker's two-run blast gave each young man good reason to remember his first varsity game.

Dan Henk and Mueller had the other extra base hits, one double apiece. Mueller and Rich Slapke each had two hits.

Smith (4), Henk (2), Watson (2), Mueller (2) and Unzelker (2) had one dozen total RBIs as two Maine runs scored on wild pitches and seven more on errors.

Appeal upheld; Harper's relay team to nationals

The Harper track team's mile relay squad will compete in next weekend's Junior College National Championships after all.

A ruling by the games committee of the national meet, to be held Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at Pasadena, Tex., will allow the Hawks' relay team to take part despite the fact that Harper finished third in the qualifying Region IV meet two weeks ago at DeKalb. Only the first two finishers to each event qualified.

A lane mixup on the first leg of the race at DeKalb gave Triton — the eventual second-place team — a distinct advantage over the Hawks. But, according to Harper coach Bob Nolan, the violation was not detected by the officials.

Nolan appealed after the race, to no avail, and followed up by appealing to David Rowlands of Mayfair Junior College, the Region IV games director. Rowlands took the case to the national games committee, which decided to allow Harper to compete, although they did not disqualify Triton.

"We thought we were denied the opportunity to run in the nationals," said Nolan, who enlisted the help of several coaches who witnessed Triton's lane infraction.

"The Region IV meet was a very well-run meet," continued Nolan. "They had curve judges for all the races, but for some reason, in the final event, the mile relay, they didn't have a curve inspector. I think the games committee took that into consideration."

Harper's mile relay team consists of Phil Fiore, Rick Reikhal, Larry Mennes, and Steve Drake. The quartet ran their best race of the year at the Region IV meet, clocking 3:23.9.

Triton's best previous time had been 3:32, but apparently because of the alleged violation, the Triton team turned in a sub 3:23.

"We're really happy about this decision," said Nolan. "That was one of the main things we were shooting for this year — to qualify in the mile relay. This is the best mile relay team we've ever had at Harper."

"The boys have responded with their best times this year when they went up against tough competition," Nolan added. "They'll have to get under 3:20 in order to make the finals at the nationals. But the important thing is that they'll get the opportunity to see what they can do."

LA run in 8th topples Cubs 3-2

Los Angeles picked up only one run from a big uprising in the eighth inning but it was enough to edge the visiting Chicago Cubs Monday, 3-2. Pinch hitter Bill Buckner provided it for the Dodgers with a sacrifice fly to the wall with two out and the bases loaded.

Neither starter was around by then. Chicago's Rick Reuschel was lifted for a pinch hitter in the top of the eighth when the Cubs rallied for two to take him off the hook. LA lefty Doug Rau, seeking his sixth win in eight decisions, allowed only two hits through the first seven innings but was chased in the eighth on a pair of base raps and a double by Jose Cardenal that cleared the bases and knotted the game at 2-2.

The Dodgers picked up a run in the fifth on Tom Pachorik's double and a single by Rau. In the sixth Willie Crawford doubled and was singled in by Ron Cey. Darrell Knowles was on the mound when Jimmy Wynn walked to open the bottom of the eighth and successive infield singles by Steve Garvey and Cey set the stage for Buckner's game winner.

Jim Brewer upped his record to 3-2 by earning the win in relief.

Orta, Bahnsen key Sox triumph

Jorge Orta batted in both Chicago White Sox runs with a bases loaded single in the third inning and Rich Gossage saved Stan Bahnsen's first win of the season Monday night in a 2-1 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles.

Orta's game-winning hit came after singles by Tony Muser and Bucky Dent plus a walk to Pat Kelly filled the bases with one out. The ball struck losing pitcher Doyle Alexander on the right foot and bounced into left field through the hole left when shortstop Mark Belanger moved to second to attempt to field it.

Baltimore's only run came in the second on Don Baylor's fifth homer of the season. Alexander took his second loss against one win while Gossage earned his sixth save.

It was the fourth straight loss for the Orioles and third win in the last four games for Chicago.

And in other sports news...

Pint-sized Billy Keller hit 20 points in relief to spark the Indiana Pacers to a 94-86 victory over Kentucky but the Colonels still hold a 3-1 edge in their ABA championship series... Bucky Dent of the White Sox, who pounded out two doubles and a triple to extend his hitting streak to eight games while boosting his on-base percentage to .600 and his slugging average to .633 was named along with Nolan Ryan as co-players of the week in the American League. That honor in the National circuit was earned by Philadelphia's Larry Bowa.

Paddlers enjoy ideal conditions

The Des Plaines Canoe Marathon was an overwhelming success Sunday with everyone cooperating... from the weatherman who smiled on the event with clear skies and temperatures in the 80s, to the forest preserve district crew who groomed the entire race route to perfection.

The nation's largest race drew entries from 10 states, with only 60 boats scratching from the field of 1,000 craft.

Steve Canlon of Wheaton and August Tribold of Glenview covered the 19-mile course in the day's fastest time of 2:43:37.

Here are the winners in each division:

The Square Anglers Club, part of the Isaak Walton League, is sponsoring a fishing trip (package deal) to Minaki, Ontario on Sand Lake, a Canadian Wilderness Camp.

The group will leave via Greyhound bus on Friday, June 20 at 5 p.m. from the Isaak Walton League parking lot and return on Saturday, June 28. Cars may be left in the parking lot — there is a guard there at all times.

The group will be housed in new A-frame cottages and the package includes transportation, guides, food — everything but a fishing license. Anglers must bring their own fishing equipment for the excellent catches of walleye, northern pike, smallmouth bass, muskie and lake trout.

For cost, which will depend on the number making the trip and further information, contact John Stack at 827-0682.

The Golf Mill Shopping Center will host its first Boat Show, Saturday, May 24 in the malls. Chicagoland's leading dealers will display canoes, outboard runabouts, sail boats, catamarans and other styles.

The exhibit will be held in the south mall during the hours of the center at Golf Mill, Golf Rd. and Milwaukee Ave. in Niles.

Think the popularity of salmon and trout fishing has peaked on Lake Michigan? A creel census of the 1974 Lake Michigan fishery by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources shows a 101 per cent increase in the number of fish caught last year.

A total of 416,941 trout and salmon were caught in Wisconsin waters of Lake Michigan in 1974 compared to 207,142 in 1973. The total number of fishing trips was 962,266 in 1974 or 43 per cent higher than in 1973 and the number of hours spent fishing was 3.1 million or an increase of 52 per cent over 1973.

And speaking of salmon fishing, the Waukegan Coho '75 Fishing Derby runs from June 7-15 with daily hours from 5 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Headquarters for the contest are at Bjersstad's Boat Yard on Clayton St. across from Mathon's restaurant on Waukegan's lakefront.

The event is sponsored by Salmon Unlimited, an organization that annually raises money which is used to improve the quality of sport fishing in Lake Michigan. Entry fee is $1 per day or $8 for nine days.

Stocks squeeze out .08 gain; trading edges ahead

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market overcame early profit-taking losses Monday and closed with a small gain in moderately active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

A decline in interest rates under the prodding of the Federal Reserve Board prompted some afternoon buying. Analysts, however, said the market was under pressures to adjust from its five-month rally.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, off nearly 10 points at the outset, then ahead more than 2 in the early afternoon, managed to gain .08 to 837.69. The closely followed average, a 21.12-point loser the previous two sessions, had climbed more than 200 points without a significant break in a rally that began New Year's Eve.

STANDARD & Poor's 500-stock index rose .10 to 90.53. The average price of an NYSE common share increased by 3 cents. Advances overtook declines, 693 to 666, among the 1,792 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled 17,870,000 shares, compared with 18,630,000 traded Friday. The turnover accelerated during the afternoon. Analysts were somewhat encouraged the turnover has slowed as prices declined, indicating the selling pressure was light.

The Fed, which cut its discount rate to 6 per cent last week, helped spur the comeback when it took steps during the afternoon to drive down rising Treasury bill rates.

PRICES CLOSED slightly higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased by 2 cents. Volume totaled 1,858,000 shares, compared with 2,023,000 traded Friday.

In the Amex options, 9,214 contracts were traded, compared with 8,933 Friday. Walt Disney July 50s led the actives up 7/8 to 637 contracts. American Home Products July 40s followed, up 3/4 to 374 contracts. Gulf Oil July 20s were third, off 1/8 to 1 1/4 on 418 contracts.

On the Chicago Board Options Exchange, 54,297 contracts were traded, compared with 50,230 Friday. RCA July 20s led the actives, up 3/8 to 1 5/8. Xerox July 80s followed, up 3/8 to 6 7/8. Tesoro Petroleum July 20s were third, up 1/4 to 2 1/4.

Dogs protected if heartworm is treated early, agencies say

Canine heartworm disease, which causes extensive organ damage and death to dogs, should be detected and treated early, the American Veterinary Medication Assn. and American Heartworm Society warn.

The disease is caused by long white worms called dirofilaria immitis, which can reach advanced stages and even cause death before signs become apparent to the owner.

Since the disease is spread by mosquitoes, the two organizations suggest spring checkups for dogs. A veterinarian can prescribe a sound preventive program or treat the dog if heartworm disease is found.

When a mosquito bites an infected dog, a mosquito may take up blood containing immature stages of the heartworm. After a two-week incubation period in the mosquito, they develop into infected larvae.

If the larvae are transmitted by the mosquito to another dog, they migrate through the body to the heart. Here they grow to adult size of from 6 to 14 inches in five or six months.

Most affected dogs can be treated successfully, the two organizations point out, if the disease is diagnosed in time. Drugs are available to kill the adult worms. Complete rest is necessary after treatment to avoid lung damage from dead and decomposing worms.

Heartworm disease in North America until recently occurred primarily along the Eastern Seaboard and Gulf State regions, but has spread to almost all mosquito-infested areas of the United States.

Court again says 'no' to equal land taxes

For the second time in two months, the Illinois Supreme Court has refused to order statewide equalization levels on real estate-tax assessments.

The decision was announced Monday in a Cook County case almost identical to an appeal of a Lake County suit heard last month. In both cases, the justices said the Illinois Dept. of Local Government Affairs has failed in its statutory duty to equalize assessments at 50 per cent.

The court noted that assessment levels actually ranged from a high of 53.23 per cent in Du Page County to a low of 36.01 per cent in Effingham County, based on 1971 figures. Under-assessed counties are getting a bigger share of state school aid and other types of state aid distributed on the basis of local tax effort, the justices said.

If the under-assessed counties, which include Cook, were suddenly equalized to 50 per cent of fair market value, property tax bills could soar, the court said. For that reason and others, the measures sought in the Cook County suit "could cause such additional difficulty, delay and expense as to make their use impractical."

The Cook County case sought to have school-aid payments for 1969-71 recomputed on the basis of proper assessment levels. The court repeated its intent to see that assessments are equalized in time to ensure proper tax bills next year.

The equalizer or multiplier is a numerical factor that is multiplied by assessed property valuation to equalize varied assessment levels throughout the state. Cook County, for example, assesses single-family homes at 22 per cent. The state assigned an equalizer of 1.48 to the county last year to increase the lower rate.

The Illinois General Assembly has also considered legislation to change the 50 per cent requirement to 33.3 per cent.

Make employees pay fair rentals: county official

County Comr. Ronald R. Larson Monday recommended that several homes provided at low rents to Forest Preserve District employees should be leased on a fair-market basis.

The Better Government Assn. revealed in February that forest preserve district officials and employees occupied 105 houses on district land at monthly rents of $50 or less.

"Forest preserve homes not used in day-to-day operations of the district should be rented to district employees at a fair-market rate," said Larson, a Republican from Merrionette Park.

The rates should be set by an independent, certified appraiser, he said.

District officials say the employees live in the homes as part of their duties, and they serve as watchmen and firemen for the district. The officials said 40 of the homes used by employees are adjacent to branch headquarters sites. The employees also maintain the residences, which are on properties acquired by the district.

Larson's plan was turned over to a committee studying forest preserve house rental policies.

High Court ruling to hurt parochial schools?

by KATHERINE BOYCE
Northwest suburban parochial schools that use some public-school services at no charge will be forced to find an alternative system under a ruling Monday by the U.S. Supreme Court.

In a 6-to-3 ruling on a Pennsylvania case, the court invalidated loans of instructional materials such as projectors or laboratory equipment to private schools and also said public schools may not provide them with free speech therapy, remedial reading or other special-service programs taught by public school teachers.

Many parochial schools in the Northwest suburbs have been making use of public school services for years and now will have to find another way to provide their children with special programs and instructional equipment in budgets already stretched to the limit.

Leo Athas, legal adviser to the Illinois Office of Education, said in his opinion the ruling means that free use of public school services is no longer allowed but private schools may still be able to use the services if the school or the parents pay for them.

THE RULING, as it reads, would put the private schools "out of business," he said. The state board of education has been expecting the court ruling, said Athas, and it is already working on procedures for private use of public school services.

Our Lady of the Wayside School, Arlington Heights, is an example of one parochial school that uses public school programs. Children now attend speech-therapy classes one period a week at Park School across the street. The classes are provided to

Our Lady of the Wayside students free and teachers are paid by Arlington Heights Dist. 25.

If the public school can no longer provide the service "we would have to provide it or ask parents to transfer children to public schools," said principal Guy Bernacchi. The school does not have the funds to provide the service itself. "We just worked on our budget and we are out of money already," he said.

"I don't think the schools themselves are entitled to anything from the government," said Bernacchi, but

"I feel the parents have a right to services from the community." If a child needs psychological testing, therapy or programs for learning disabilities Bernacchi said he feels it is "up to the state to provide it" because parents support the public schools through property taxes.

Sister Connie, principal of St. Stephen School, Des Plaines, said, "We can't afford psychological services. It just couldn't be part of our budget." The parochial schools may now have to use volunteers for special services, (Continued on Page 2)

Marine, 24, drowns in Beck Lake

by STEVE BROWN

An afternoon outing ended in tragedy Monday when a 24-year-old Marine drowned while boating on Beck Lake near Des Plaines.

Forest Preserve District rangers said William Kottke drowned after falling out of a canoe. Fire department divers from several communities worked into the night trying to find Kottke's body. The incident occurred about 1:45 p.m. Divers halted the search about 7:30 p.m. because of darkness. They will resume the work today.

Kottke was stationed at the Glenview Naval Air Station. Beck Lake is at Central and East River roads in Northfield Township.

He was apparently canoeing with four other servicemen when he fell out of the boat. Officials at the Marine headquarters declined to provide any information about Kottke until the drowning was confirmed.

Witnesses told Sheriff's police and forest rangers that the group had been in the lake for some time when the incident occurred.

KENNETH HIBBERD, 21, another Marine, said Kottke was in his canoe, but got into another boat with Max Jones when Hibberd went to shore to pick up life jackets.

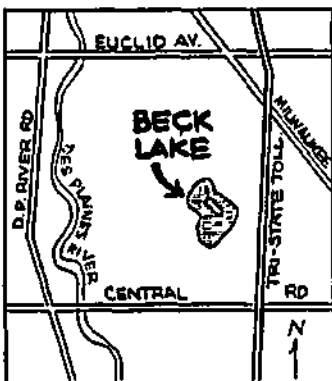

Witnesses said Kottke was not wearing a life jacket. They told police he did not know how to swim. While the Marines said Kottke fell into the lake, Eugene Gallagher, forest preserve district superintendent, said he was told the group had been swimming in the lake.

"My mounted forest ranger had been yelling at them from the shore for a half hour, telling them to get out of the water, and they did not listen," Gallagher said.

He said boaters frequently tip their boats to swim. Swimming is not allowed at Beck Lake.

He said the rangers check boaters to be sure they are wearing life jackets before entering the lake, but he said the group apparently left the jackets on a small island in the lake, which is about 200 yards wide.

THE INCIDENT was the third reported drowning at Beck Lake in recent years. In past incidents, divers have had difficulty searching the lake because the mud bottom limits visibility.

Divers searched for more than a week in 1972 for the body of a Glenview boy who tried to swim across the lake. Another man drowned there in 1973.

Forest rangers said the lake is up to 35 feet deep in some parts.

MARINES MAX JONES, left, and Kenneth Hibberd, right, talk with an unidentified man Monday as divers search Beck Lake in Northfield Township for the body of William Kottke, 24, who apparently drowned after falling from a canoe. Jones had been in the boat with Kottke at the time of the incident, police said.

Townhouses, condos included

City trash-pickup ordinance widened

Des Plaines garbage-pickup service will be extended to small townhouses and condominium apartments.

The city council Monday night unanimously adopted an amendment to the city garbage ordinance to provide pickup at multiple-family buildings with up to four units. Garbage will be picked up only from locations where city vehicles can gain access without going on private property.

Until now, the city collected trash only from single-family homes and required residents of multiple-family dwellings to contract with a private scavenger, at a higher cost, for trash collection.

The amendment was passed 17 to 0 by the city council.

Anyone not formerly covered by the city's garbage ordinance who now wants the service should contact the city comptroller. Those not desiring city collection may continue to be serviced by a private scavenger.

THE AMENDMENT to include townhouses and condominium apartments was recommended by the city council's sanitation committee after meeting with several multiple-family homeowners on the city's South Side.

Ronald Lorris, an attorney for several townhouse owners, suggested the city revise its policy because some persons now own their homes even though the structures are attached.

Several hundred multiple-family residences will be affected by the revised garbage-pickup ordinance.

Ald. Richard Ward, 8th, said he favors extending trash collection to multiple-family homes because the service is subsidized with tax revenue.

CITY TRASH collection costs residents $2 per month. The cost of private scavenger service varies but it is almost twice as much as the city fee, several aldermen say.

One resident, Thomas Caviezel, president of the Star Area Homeowners Assn., recently said some residents would prefer to remain with a private scavenger. He said some residents having private service get trash collected twice a week and do not have to carry refuse to the curb for pickup.

Current city regulations require only one pickup a week and require residents to place trash on the curb for collection.

DIVERS FROM several fire departments searched Monday night for the body of William Kottke, a 24-year-old Marine, who apparently drowned, until 7:30 p.m.

A&P closing 7 Northwest suburb stores

Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. grocery chain officials, attempting to overcome a $157.1 million loss for fiscal 1975, are closing one-third of their 3,500 stores nationwide, including seven in the Northwest suburbs.

The A&P store at Campbell Street and Wilko Road, Arlington Heights, is closing this week, manager Steve Gaska said. A&P stores at Arlington Heights and Palatine roads, Arlington Heights, and at Devon and Tonne roads, Elk Grove Village, will close this month, he said.

"It is our intention to reenter the area with stores in the 30,000-to 50,000-square-foot range, stores with complete food departments," said J. Ellis McDaniel, real estate director.

The new, larger stores will include more brand-name products and an expanded range of non-food items.

FIRST OF THE new area stores is at Dempster Road and Ill. Rte. 83, Mount Prospect. Another recently opened at Golf and Dee roads, Maine Township. Scheduled to open in 1977 is a store at the Old Madrid apartment complex, Hicks and Baldwin roads, Palatine.

The Wheeling store at Dundee Road and Ill. Rte. 83 closed last week and the Schaumburg store at Higgins and Golf roads closed two months ago. The Palatine store at Robertson Road and Northwest Highway shut down last September and the Mount Prospect store at Ill. Rte. 83 and Northwest Highway closed in February 1974.

The Des Plaines store at Oakton and Lee streets has not been notified that it will be closed, a spokesman said.

McDaniel said he could provide no more information on other new store sites.

"I'm negotiating for sites. I can't tell you what my plans are," he added.

'Won't hurt district finances'

School rolls to drop 3.5% next year

by JUDY JOBBITT

Projected attendance figures for Elk Grove Township Dist. 69 next year show a 3.5 per cent decline in enrollment.

Enrollment is projected at 10,524 students compared to 10,903 in October 1974.

Acting Supt. Roger Bardwell said the decreased enrollment will not adversely affect district finances.

The district receives state aid based mostly on enrollment, but Bardwell said it does not constitute a major portion of the district's revenue.

THE BREAKDOWN according to schools shows elementary schools will be most affected by the declining enrollment, losing 417 students. Byrd and Clearmont schools in Elk Grove Village will lose the most students. Byrd will lose 59 students with 430 students expected and Clearmont will drop 58 to 397.

Other schools that will be affected by a major enrollment decline are: Devonshire School, Des Plaines, down 43 to 431 students; Einstein School, Des Plaines, 34 to 398 students; Forest View School, Mount Prospect; 44 to 404; Rupley School, Elk Grove Village, 55 to 475; and Salt Creek School, Elk Grove Village, 36 to 373.

The five junior high schools show a leveling off with 38 additional students expected next year. Holmes Junior High School, Mount Prospect, will have the greatest increase with 41 additional students.

Dempester Junior High School, Mount Prospect, shows an increase of 18 students and Lively Junior High School, Elk Grove Village, shows an increase of five students. Friendship Junior High School, Des Plaines, expects to lose 19 students and Grove Junior High School, Elk Grove Village, expects 9 fewer students.

4-day bingo being planned to pay for park pavilion

Supporters of the efforts to complete construction on the Memorial Band Pavilion at Lake Park will stage a four-day bingo marathon to raise money for the project.

The Military Commemorative Committee is seeking to raise $8,000 to $10,000 through the effort. The money is needed because some expenses on the $50,000 project have been greater than expected.

The park district is scheduling the dedication of the bandshell with activities for June 1.

The bingo session will be May 29 at 7:30 p.m. at the VFW Hall on Miner Street; May 30 at 8 p.m. at the American Legion Hall, 10 N. East River Rd. May 31, at 7:30 p.m. at the Ameri-

AL STONE, assistant superintendent for personnel, said the declining enrollment in the elementary schools presents the district with several alternatives.

"Up until this point we had all we could handle to get enough schools and enough classrooms available. Now we can look at other options," he said.

One option the district has been considering is moving the sixth-grade students back into the elementary schools. Grades 6-8 have been taught in the junior high schools for about 10 years because the elementary schools were overcrowded and space was available in the junior high schools.

Acting Supt. Roger Bardwell is ap-

The May 31 session will be sponsored by the Marine Corps League and the June 1 program will be sponsored by the Military Commemorative Committee.

Further information about the bingo marathon can be obtained by calling Ray Slivka at 296-8771.

pointing a committee to investigate the possibility of moving sixth graders back into the elementary schools.

"The real concern is to try to determine where we can offer the best experiences for our sixth-grade students," Bardwell said.

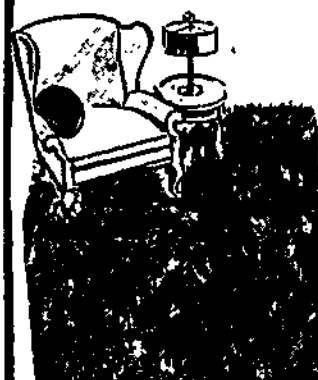

HE SAID Lively and Holmes are the most overcrowded. Both schools were built to handle 500 to 550 students. Next year Lively expects 708 students and Holmes expects 784 students. Grove also was built to handle at most 1,000 students and will have about 1,100 students next year, he said.

Other alternatives that might be investigated by the committee include offering parents the option of having their sixth graders attend the elementary school, moving some junior high programs into available space in the elementary schools and grouping kindergarten to fourth grade and fifth through eighth grade in separate buildings.

High Court ruling to hurt parochial schools?

by KATHERINE BOYCE
Northwest suburban parochial schools that use some public-school services at no charge will be forced to find an alternative system under a ruling Monday by the U.S. Supreme Court.

In a 6-to-3 ruling on a Pennsylvania case, the court invalidated loans of instructional materials such as projectors or laboratory equipment to private schools and also said public schools may not provide them with free speech therapy, remedial reading or other special-service programs taught by public school teachers.

Many parochial schools in the Northwest suburbs have been making use of public school services for years and now will have to find another way to provide their children with special programs and instructional equipment in budgets already stretched to the limit.

Leo Athas, legal adviser to the Illinois Office of Education, said in his opinion the ruling means that free use of public school services is no longer allowed but private schools may still be able to use the services if the school or the parents pay for them.

THE RULING, as it reads, would put the private schools "out of business," he said. The state board of education has been expecting the court ruling, said Athas, and it is already working on procedures for private use of public school services.

Hearings set for rezoning on Strong St.

The Wheeling Zoning Board has been directed to hold a public hearing on rezoning 47 parcels along W. Strong Street from multi-family to single-family use.

The direction came Monday night from the village board in a 4-to-2 vote and drew heated debate from Trustee William Hein, who voted against the proposal along with Trustee Charles Kerr.

Hein said the request for zoning board hearings was not proper because the village is holding in abeyance all building permits for the lots.

The permits were ordered held last week after the board voted to declare the property's zoning expired.

VICTOR SMIGEL, developer of the lots, received six building permits and began construction on two 6-flat apartments. The board ordered construction halted and permits held pending a legal opinion on Smigel's right to complete construction.

Smigel won a lengthy court battle recently which upheld the rezoning of the property. The rezoning was granted in 1972 but was challenged unsuccessfully by local residents.

The board voted to declare the zoning expired because it said the two-year limit on rezonings had run out despite the contention that building on the lots was suspended because of the litigation.

Village ordinance declares that rezoning on property shall expire in two years if construction has not begun.

HEIN SAID the village should investigate whether the board has the

Marine, 24, drowns in Beck Lake

by STEVE BROWN

An afternoon outing ended in tragedy Monday when a 24-year-old Marine drowned while boating on Beck Lake near Des Plaines.

Forest Preserve District rangers said William Kotke drowned after falling out of a canoe. Fire department divers from several communities worked into the night trying to find Kotke's body. The incident occurred about 1:45 p.m. Divers halted the search about 7:30 p.m. because of darkness. They will resume the work today.

Kotke was stationed at the Glenview Naval Air Station. Beck Lake is at Central and East River roads in Northfield Township.

He was apparently canoeing with four other servicemen when he fell out of the boat. Officials at the Marine headquarters declined to provide any information about Kotke until the drowning was confirmed.

Witnesses told Sheriff's police and forest rangers that the group had been in the lake for some time when the incident occurred.

KENNETH HIBBERD, 23, another Marine, said Kotke was in his canoe, but got into another boat with Max Jones when Hibberd went to shore to pick up life jackets.

Witnesses said Kotke was not wearing a life jacket. They told police he did not know how to swim.

While the Marines said Kotke fell into the lake, Eugene Gallagher, forest preserve district superintendent, said he was told the group had been swimming in the lake.

"My mounted forest ranger had been yelling at them from the shore for a half hour, telling them to get out of the water, and they did not listen," Gallagher said.

He said boaters frequently tip their boats to swim. Swimming is not allowed at Beck Lake.

He said the rangers check boaters to be sure they are wearing life jackets before entering the lake, but he said the group apparently left the jackets on a small island in the lake, which is about 200 yards wide.

THE INCIDENT was the third reported drowning at Beck Lake in recent years. In past incidents, divers have had difficulty searching the lake because the mud bottom limits visibility.

Divers searched for more than a week in 1972 for the body of a Glenview boy who tried to swim across the lake. Another man drowned there in 1973.

Forest rangers said the lake is up to 35 feet deep in some parts.

DIVERS FROM several fire departments searched Monday night until 7:30 p.m. for the body of

A&P closing 7 Northwest suburb stores

Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. grocery chain officials, attempting to overcome a $157.1 million loss for fiscal 1975, are closing one-third of their 3,500 stores nationwide, including seven in the Northwest suburbs.

The A&P store at Campbell Street and Wilke Road, Arlington Heights, is closing this week, manager Steve Gaska said. A&P stores at Arlington Heights and Palatine roads, Arlington Heights, and at Devon and Tonne roads, Elk Grove Village, will close this month, he said.

"It is our intention to recast the area with stores in the 30,000 to 50,000-square-foot range, stores with complete food departments," said J. Ellis McDaniel, real estate director.

The new, larger stores will include more brand-name products and an expanded range of non-food items.

FIRST OF THE new area stores is at Dempster Road and Ill. Rte. 83, Mount Prospect. Another recently opened at Golf and Dee roads, Maine Township. Scheduled to open in 1977 is a store at the Old Madrid apartment complex, Hicks and Baldwin roads, Palatine.

The Wheeling store at Dundee Road and Ill. Rte. 83 closed last week and the Schaumburg store at Higgins and Golf roads closed two months ago. The Palatine store at Robertson Road and Northwest Highway shut down last September and the Mount Prospect store at Ill. Rte. 83 and Northwest Highway closed in February 1974.

The Des Plaines store at Oakton and Lee streets has not been notified that it will be closed, a spokesman said.

McDaniel said he could provide no more information on other new store sites.

"I'm negotiating for sites. I can't tell you what my plans are," he added.

Negotiators mum on demands

Village pay-hike talks start Friday

by LUISA GINETTI

A four-member negotiating team representing Wheeling employees will meet Friday with Village Mgr. George Passolt and Administrative Assistant Thomas Markus to discuss pay raises for fiscal 1976-76.

Petrolman Edward A. Leach, chairman of the wage-and-salary committee, said the meeting will be the first formal session between the two sides. Leach said written proposals have been exchanged but he declined to say what the packages ask.

Leach said negotiators have agreed to make no statements about negotiations until an agreement is reached.

It is believed employees are seeking a 9-to-15 per cent across-the-board pay raise but Leach has said the 15 per cent figure may be an overestimate.

PAY RAISES FOR village employees in the 1974-75 fiscal budget were limited to a 10.3 per cent cost-of-living increase.

Leach said he could not predict how long salary talks will go on but he said he expects this year's negotiations to be the smoothest in recent years.

"This year's negotiations will be the smoothest ever because we have eliminated a lot of people from the bargaining sessions," Leach said. He added that the employee negotiating committee has been reduced from 14 to 4 and, on the village side, the trustees and village attorney have been eliminated from bargaining sessions.

"I think a smaller group will help facilitate negotiations," Leach said. "At times last year it got to be very confusing with all those people involved and sometimes it got to be a little heated."

LEACH SAID HE expects both sides to issue a statement when a settlement is reached in the bargaining. The village board must approve any package to which negotiators agree since the pay raises will be part of the 1975-76 budget.

Passolt and Markus are working on the budget and have said a tentative outline should be ready within the next few weeks.

The employee wage-and-salary committee consists of 14 workers from all village departments who have been elected by employees. The bargaining team negotiates on behalf of all village employees including firemen, policemen, clerks and secretaries in all departments.

The committee does not represent the village manager, fire chief, police chief, public works director or other ranking officials. Their salaries are negotiated separately.

Police panel to hear Guttilla case

The two-day suspension of Wheeling Police Chief Peter P. Guttilla and subsequent rescinding of that suspension will be brought before the village fire and police commission.

Following an executive session Monday night, the village board voted to authorize Village Mgr. George Passolt to hire an attorney to assist him in going before the commission to bring suspension charges before the board.

Guttilla was suspended by Passolt for interfering in a traffic-court case on behalf of his secretary's son-in-law. The suspension was rescinded after Guttilla challenged Passolt's authority to suspend him, saying that authority rested with the commission rather than the village manager.

Passolt declined to comment on the matter Monday, but said a special meeting of the fire and police commission may be called to discuss the case. The commission meets the second Tuesday of each month.

Strong St. rezoning hearings ordered power to hold building permits under a village manager form of government. He added that the ordinance may not hold up in court. He said the village should investigate this before it declares other rezonings expired.

"I can't see this village getting all tied up in costly litigation if we won't have a chance to win," Hein said.

Trustee Gilbert Monson, who requested the zoning board hearings, said he was asking only for hearings, not rezoning action.

Omni-House gets $16,100 from village

Buffalo Grove officials Monday night appropriated $16,100 to Omni-House: Youth Services Bureau, Wheeling, for 1975-76.

The village has contributed to the bureau during the entire four years of its operation. Last year the village donated $16,250.

In support of the board's action, Village Pres. Edward Fabish said funding for the agency is like a "wash item — I hope we can keep it funded — it's one of the best youth services we have."

Omni-House is an agency serving youths in the Buffalo Grove, Wheeling and Arlington Heights areas. The bureau acts as a referral agency for teen-agers while training police in dealing with adolescents. Group and family counseling also are among its services.

THE REQUEST for local funding was put before the board by Omni-House officials because Buffalo Grove residents will receive some $64,000 worth of services for the next fiscal year, said Harvey Ungerleider, bureau official.

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said the village has made budgetary provisions in this fiscal year to support the request.

In addition to funds from Buffalo Grove, the agency receives money from other communities and the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission.

PETER DIGRE, executive director, said Arlington Heights and Wheeling Township officials have already agreed to contribute $20,000 for Omni-House operations in the next fiscal year. The agency also has a request (Continued on Page 5)

Forest Preserve District rangers said William Kottke drowned after falling out of a canoe. Fire department divers from several communities worked into the night trying to find Kottke's body. The incident occurred about 1:45 p.m. Divers halted the search about 7:30 p.m. because of darkness. They will resume the work today.

Kottke was stationed at the Glenview Naval Air Station. Beck Lake is at Central and East River roads in Northfield Township.

He was apparently canoeing with four other servicemen when he fell out of the boat. Officials at the Marine headquarters declined to provide any information about Kottke until the drowning was confirmed.

Witnesses told Sheriff's police and forest rangers that the group had been in the lake for some time when the incident occurred.

KENNETH HIBBERD, 23, another Marine, said Kottke was in his canoe, but got into another boat with Max Jones when Hibberd went to shore to pick up life jackets.

Witnesses said Kottke was not wearing a life jacket. They told police he did not know how to swim.

While the Marines said Kottke fell into the lake, Eugene Gallagher, forest preserve district superintendent, said he was told the group had been swimming in the lake.

"My mounted forest ranger had been yelling at them from the shore for a half hour, telling them to get out of the water, and they did not listen," Gallagher said.

He said boaters frequently tip their boats to swim. Swimming is not allowed at Beck Lake.

He said the rangers check boaters to be sure they are wearing life jackets before entering the lake, but he said the group apparently left the jackets on a small island in the lake, which is about 200 yards wide.

THE INCIDENT was the third reported drowning at Beck Lake in recent years. In past incidents, divers have had difficulty searching the lake because the mud bottom limits visibility.

Divers searched for more than a week in 1972 for the body of a Glenview boy who tried to swim across the lake. Another man drowned there in 1973.

Forest rangers said the lake is up to 35 feet deep in some parts.

DIVERS FROM several fire departments searched Monday night until 7:30 p.m. for the body of

A&P closing 7 Northwest suburb stores

Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. grocery chain officials, attempting to overcome a $157.1 million loss for fiscal 1975, are closing one-third of their 3,500 stores nationwide, including seven in the Northwest suburbs.

The A&P store at Campbell Street and Wilko Road, Arlington Heights, is closing this week, manager Steve Gaska said. A&P stores at Arlington Heights and Palatine roads, Arlington Heights, and at Devon and Tonne roads, Elk Grove Village, will close this month, he said.

"It is our intention to reenter the area with stores in the 30,000 to 50,000-square-foot range, stores with complete food departments," said J. Ellis McDaniel, real estate director.

The new, larger stores will include more brand-name products and an expanded range of non-food items.

FIRST OF THE new area stores is at Dempster Road and Ill. Rte. 83, Mount Prospect. Another recently opened at Golf and Dee roads, Maine Township. Scheduled to open in 1977 is a store at the Old Madrid apartment complex, Hicks and Baldwin roads, Palatine.

The Wheeling store at Dundee Road and Ill. Rte. 83 closed last week and the Schaumburg store at Higgins and Golf roads closed two months ago. The Palatine store at Robertson Road and Northwest Highway shut down last September and the Mount Prospect store at Ill. Rte. 83 and Northwest Highway closed in February 1974.

The Des Plaines store at Oakton and Lee streets has not been notified that it will be closed, a spokesman said.

McDaniel said he could provide no more information on other new store sites.

"I'm negotiating for sites. I can't tell you what my plans are," he added.

Costs stop garbage-bag pickup service in village

High costs of starting and operating a garbage-bag scavenger service prevents its introduction in Buffalo Grove, village officials said Monday.

Under the system, residents would purchase plastic or paper sacks from the village or its scavenger service. Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said a costly study would have to be conducted before the system is started. He was unable to estimate what the cost would be.

The analysis would include a test program where bags would be distributed to certain residents to see how efficiently the program works.

A sack system would be "more expensive" even after the conclusion of the study, he said, adding that current garbage-collection systems are working well and many residents already store their trash in bags for pickup. This is another reason for negating the need for such a program.

VILLAGE Administrative Assistant William Balling said village ordinances require that trash be stored in some type of can or other "adequate refuse container" and said bags have proven themselves suitable.

James Raupp, president of the Buffalo Grove Disposal Co., that provides local scavenger service, has urged village officials to enact a sack program saying it would cut his garbage collection costs.

Larson said, however, he doubted whether the decreased scavenger cost resulting from the program would help cut further trash collection rate-increases because of rising labor costs. The village recently granted the company a 40 cent per month rate increase that will raise bimonthly garbage bills to $9.80 from the current $9. A postcard survey taken last year by officials found that 51 per cent of those questioned used garbage bags but the poll was not as sophisticated as the necessary pilot analysis discussed by Larson.

Village OKs $16,100 for Omni-House

The state, Digre said, has been decreasing its amount of monetary support and the bureau has had to ask municipalities for less money each year because the agency "has developed the ability to raise money independently." He said private foundations and area industry are donating greater amounts each year.

The organization also is expanding its programs into the Vernon Township and Lincolnshire area, he said.

Omni-House officials invited village officials to attend a coffee hour early next month at the center, 57 S. Wolf Rd., to learn more about their programs.

Stay home tonight to get your pizza

If you ordered pizza from the Buffalo Grove Bicentennial Commission and have not received it yet — stay home tonight so it can be delivered, said Thomas Fitzgerald, chairman of the commission.

Fitzgerald said Monday some 200 of the 1,000 pizzas ordered could not be delivered Saturday, the scheduled delivery day, because residents were not home. He said residents who did not get their pizzas can expect delivery today after 6 p.m. Members of the Buffalo Grove High School band will try to deliver the remaining orders.

The pizza sales are supporting local Bicentennial projects and the band also will benefit from the proceeds, Fitzgerald said.

Donations sought for benefit sale

The Buffalo Grove Police Dept. auxiliary is seeking donations from village residents for their second annual garage sale scheduled for June 5-7.

Proceeds from the sale go to a local little league baseball team sponsored by the group and also supports the police department, Mrs. Spinelle said.

High Court ruling to hurt parochial schools?

by KATHERINE BOYCE
Northwest suburban parochial schools that use some public-school services at no charge will be forced to find an alternative system under a ruling Monday by the U.S. Supreme Court.

In a 6-to-3 ruling on a Pennsylvania case, the court invalidated loans of instructional materials such as projectors or laboratory equipment to private schools and also said public schools may not provide them with free speech therapy, remedial reading or other special-service programs taught by public school teachers.

Many parochial schools in the Northwest suburbs have been making use of public school services for years and now will have to find another way to provide their children with special programs and instructional equipment in budgets already stretched to the limit.

Leo Athas, legal adviser to the Illinois Office of Education, said in his opinion the ruling means that free use of public school services is no longer allowed but private schools may still be able to use the services if the school or the parents pay for them.

THE RULING, as it reads, would put the private schools "out of business," he said. The state board of education has been expecting the court ruling, said Athas, and it is already working on procedures for private use of public school services.

Our Lady of the Wayside School, Arlington Heights, is an example of one parochial school that uses public school programs. Children now attend speech-therapy classes one period a week at Park School across the street. The classes are provided to

Our Lady of the Wayside students free and teachers are paid by Arlington Heights Dist. 23.

If the public school can no longer provide the service "we would have to provide it or ask parents to transfer children to public schools," said principal Guy Bernacchi. The school does not have the funds to provide the service itself. "We just worked on our budget and we are out of money already," he said.

"I don't think the schools themselves are entitled to anything from the government," said Bernacchi, but

"I feel the parents have a right to services from the community." If a child needs psychological testing, therapy or programs for learning disabilities Bernacchi said he feels it is "up to the state to provide it" because parents support the public schools through property taxes.

Sister Connie, principal of St. Stephen School, Des Plaines, said, "We can't afford psychological services. It just couldn't be part of our budget." The parochial schools may now have to use volunteers for special services. (Continued on Page 2)

Village to study proposal

Fire union moves ahead in bid for recognition

The Hoffman Estates Village Board has agreed to consider village firefighters' continuing requests for official recognition of their union as a collective-bargaining agent.

The board in a voice vote Monday night consented to study the firefighters' proposal, which seeks to have their union, Local 2061, International Assn. of Firefighters, AFL-CIO, formed in 1970, officially accepted as a collective bargaining agent.

Village Mgr. George Longmeyer was appointed by the board to begin talks between administrative staff and the union. The proposal is then expected to go to the board's police, fire and public safety committee before the full board acts.

THE DECISION to begin action on the firemen's request came after union local president Richard Cordova read a letter to the board Monday night stating again the union's call for recognition.

The request specifically calls for recognition of not only the union but of the union in the role of collective bargaining agent.

Two months ago Cordova made a similar appeal to the board, but no action was taken.

"At this time we formally request that the Hoffman Estates Professional Firefighters Assn. Local 2061 be recognized as the collective bargaining agent for all full-time firefighting personnel in the Hoffman Estates Fire Dept.," Cordova said.

"We feel that this recognition would serve both the village of Hoffman Estates and the members of the fire department as a means of furthering mutual understanding and more complete communication between the fire department personnel and the village administration," Cordova added.

THE VILLAGE now recognizes only the police department's Fraternal Order of Police chapter as a collective bargaining agent in employee salary discussions.

This year the village and FOP failed to reach accord on salary increases, with the FOP terming the village's 7 per cent pay hike unacceptable. No formal action was taken by police, however, because collective action, such as strikes, are prohibited in the village.

The fire department's union has attempted to gain recognition since mid-1971, at that time from the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District which governed the department.

This year the district was officially annexed by the village, and firemen have since directed the union matter to the village board.

THE UNION became a source of controversy in 1972 with a court battle over the dismissal of a firefighter who was a union member. A Circuit Court judge ordered the firefighter reinstated after ruling his dismissal came because of his union activities.

Longmeyer said after the meeting officials were aware that the firefighter's request would be made again Monday night. He said he will meet with the union representatives, but said public discussion on the matter will not come until it is taken to the village board committee.

The union's membership does not include all the village's full-time firefighters, officials said, Monday night, although they did not know specifically how many men are in the union.

Three youths arrested for damaging lawns

Schaumburg police have arrested three youths for driving over three lawns and several garbage cans, police said.

Charged with criminal damage to property were John W. Mitnick, 19, of 1031 Schaumburg Rd., Schaumburg; Daniel A. Dever, 19, of 700 Greco, Prospect Heights, and Kevin W. Enright, 19, of 125 Horner Ln., Mount Prospect. Dever, the driver of the car, also was charged with driving without a license after the alleged incident late Sunday.

Police were summoned to Verona Court after reports that a car had driven over lawns and knocked over garbage cans. Police said one of the youths told authorities the car's transmission was stuck and the driver could not stop the vehicle.

Lawns were damaged at the Wyman Weed home, 514 Boxwood Dr.; Richard Ghak residence, 622 Verona Ct., and Eleanor Milner home, 625 Verona Ct.

All three posted $1,000 bond each pending court appearances June 11 in the Schaumburg branch of Circuit Court.

GIDDYUP. Betty Conway and her 1½-year-old son John ride a hobby horse at their homemade toys display in the Schaumburg Park District annual Mayfair. Thousands of persons attended the arts and crafts exhibition during the weekend at Meike Park.

Sewage plant ready next fall?

Completion of the sewage-treatment plant south of Schaumburg Road in Schaumburg Township now is expected in September, though the plant probably won't be operational for several more months, Metropolitan Sanitary District officials have indicated.

The plant originally was scheduled to open last December, but weather problems and additions to the work have postponed the completion date to September.

Sanitary district officials said they are uncertain when the plant will begin treating sewage because installation of a $137,000 system of pipes to carry sludge from the plant to the north side sewage treatment plant in Skokie is not scheduled until late November.

When finished the plant, named for John E. Egan, former MSD board president, will treat 50 million gallons of sewage per day from Palatine, Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Elk Grove Village, Roselle and Inverness.

Racquet club, eatery seek liquor permits

The Woodfield Racquet Club, 1415 N. Payne Rd., Schaumburg, has requested a liquor license to serve mixed drinks and beer to its members.

Also requesting a liquor license are the owners of a new restaurant to open on Mall Drive between Higgins Road and Woodfield Drive. The restaurant, Sizzler's, is a California-based franchise operation.

The license requests will be heard at the next village board meeting May 27.

Park advisory group plans June 19 meet

Members of a new citizens' advisory committee to Schaumburg Park District will meet June 19 at 8 p.m. at Meike Community Center, 220 E. Weatherfield Way.

The park district is sending letters to each PTA group in the village, as well as Schaumburg Athletic Assn. and other civic and community organizations asking that representatives attend the meeting, said Paul Derda, director of parks and recreation.

Derda said the advisory group is being organized to help improve communications between the park district, community organizations and citizens.

3 burglaries, theft of 5 trees probed

Schaumburg police are investigating three burglaries and the theft of $150 worth of trees from a Schaumburg-Centex Industrial Park firm.

Olympia Kutsch, 604 Bryn Mawr Ct., told police Monday a camera and jewelry, valued at $495, were taken in a break-in of her home. Police said there were no signs of forced entry.

Burglars took cash and a television set from Hunter Automated Machinery Corp., 2222 Hammond Dr., after prying open a door, authorities said. Estimated loss was $360.

The other burglary was at Beef 'n' Barof restaurant, 2400 Hammond Dr. Burglars attempted to pry open the restaurant safe, but nothing was taken, police reported. Police found a broken window after the break-in was reported.

Five freshly planted Japanese yew trees were uprooted and stolen from J. M. Fauver Co., 519 Lunt Ave., in the Industrial park.

Man, 22, arrested on assault charge

A Schaumburg man was arrested late Sunday for threatening a man with a pipe during a dispute concerning speeding on Wellesley Lane near Warwick Lane, Schaumburg police said.

Thomas F. Klein, 22, of 1221 Cambria Ln., was charged with aggravated assault, unlawful use of a weapon and reckless driving.

Police reported the dispute began after Robert Meyer, 41, of 223 Wellesley Ln., threw a bicycle in front of an auto to keep it from speeding on his street.

Klein left the car and threatened Meyer with a section of pipe, police said. A scuffle ensued, and police arrested Klein.

Klein was released after posting $1,000 in bonds pending an appearance June 11 in the Schaumburg branch of Circuit Court.

A&P closing 7 Northwest suburb stores

Is the "friendly neighborhood grocery store" becoming a thing of the past in the suburbs? Story and photo on Page 9.

Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. grocery chain officials, attempting to overcome a $157.1 million loss for fiscal 1975, are closing one-third of their 3,500 stores nationwide, including seven in the Northwest suburbs.

The A&P store at Campbell Street and Wilke Road, Arlington Heights, is closing this week, manager Steve Gaska said. A&P stores at Arlington Heights and Palatine roads, Arlington Heights, and at Devon and Tonne roads, Elk Grove Village, will close this month, he said.

"It is our intention to reenter the area with stores in the 30,000 to 50,000-square-foot range, stores with complete food departments," said J. Ellis McDaniel, real estate director.

The new, larger stores will include more brand-name products and an expanded range of non-food items.

FIRST OF THE new area stores is at Dempster Road and Ill. Rte. 83, Mount Prospect. Another recently opened at Golf and Dee roads, Maine Township. Scheduled to open in 1977 is a store at the Old Madrid apartment complex, Hicks and Baldwin roads, Palatine.

The Wheeling store at Dundee Road and Ill. Rte. 83 closed last week and the Schaumburg store at Higgins and Golf roads closed two months ago. The Palatine store at Robertson Road and Northwest Highway shut down last September and the Mount Prospect store at Ill. Rte. 83 and Northwest Highway closed in February 1974.

The Des Plaines store at Oakton and Lee streets has not been notified that it will be closed, a spokesman said.

McDaniel said he could provide no more information on other new store sites.

"I'm negotiating for sites. I can't tell you what my plans are," he added.

Fire department divers search for body

Marine, 24, drowns in Beck Lake

by STEVE BROWN

An afternoon outing ended in tragedy Monday when a 24-year-old Marine drowned while boating on Beck Lake near Des Plaines.

Forest Preserve District rangers said William Kotke drowned after falling out of a canoe. Fire department divers from several communities worked into the night trying to find Kotke's body. The incident occurred about 1:45 p.m. Divers halted the search about 7:30 p.m. because of darkness. They will resume the work today.

Kotke was stationed at the Glenview Naval Air Station. Beck Lake is at Central and East River roads in Northfield Township.

He was apparently canoeing with four other servicemen when he fell out of the boat. Officials at the Marine headquarters declined to provide any information about Kotke until the drowning was confirmed.

Witnesses told Sheriff's police and forest rangers that the group had been in the lake for some time when the incident occurred.

KENNETH HIBBERD, 23, another Marine, said Kotke was in his canoe, but got into another boat with Max Jones when Hibberd went to shore to pick up life jackets.

Witnesses said Kotke was not wearing a life jacket. They told police he did not know how to swim.

While the Marines said Kotke fell into the lake, Eugene Gallagher, forest preserve district superintendent, said he was told the group had been swimming in the lake.

"My mounted forest ranger had been yelling at them from the shore for a half hour, telling them to get out of the water, and they did not listen," Gallagher said.

He said boaters frequently tip their boats to swim. Swimming is not allowed at Beck Lake.

He said the rangers check boaters to be sure they are wearing life jackets before entering the lake, but he said the group apparently left the jackets on a small island in the lake, which is about 200 yards wide.

THE INCIDENT was the third reported drowning at Beck Lake in recent years. In past incidents, divers have had difficulty searching the lake because the mud bottom limits visibility.

Divers searched for more than a week in 1972 for the body of a Glenview boy who tried to swim across the lake. Another man drowned there in 1973.

Forest rangers said the lake is up to 35 feet deep in some parts.

Resignations 'a courtesy'

Recent resignations from Schaumburg plans commission and zoning board members have been acknowledged but not accepted by Village Pres. Raymond Kessell.

Kessell said this week he plans no changes in the composition of either board and described the resignations as "a courtesy" offered him as new village president.

He admitted, however, that revisions in procedure and several possible new courses of direction for both boards are under consideration.

Kessell said replacements for the three appointive posts held by Alan Larson before May 1 will be made by mid-June. Until his election to a four-year trustee term, Larson served on the zoning board and was chairman of the public relations and environmental committees.

SCHAUMBURG CITIZENS for Planned Progress candidates may have been troubled by the incumbent Schaumburg United Party in the April village election, but the new political party is far from dead, says spokesman Tim O'Brien, whose wife, Sally, opposed Kessell in his bid for the presidency.

O'Brien said SCOP members will meet next week to elect officers to guide the party through the end of the year and name chairmen for four major committees — publicity, organization, research and finance.

"Just wait until you see our 1977 village candidates," O'Brien warned.

SCHAUMBURG GREEN apartment complex has a teen club whose members have been doing odd jobs in the Wise Road development to earn money for activities. M. Myers and Associates, complex owner, has promised the group space for a baseball diamond behind the apartment buildings.

Organizers of the teen club are Donald Welch and Jackie Rothrie.

ELLSWORTH MEINEKE, Schaumburg's resident conservationist and a leader in efforts to make the Spring Valley Nature Center a reality, recently was given a special recognition award by America the Beautiful Fund of Washington, D. C.

Food-truck design, slogan can win prizes for pupils

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 is asking students to create a design and slogan for its food-service trucks.

The district is holding a contest for students in kindergarten through eighth grade to come up with a slogan and design to decorate the district's white delivery trucks. Separate prizes will be given for best design and best slogan, but both prizes may be won by the same person.

Gift certificates of $15 each will be presented to the first-place winners and $10 gift certificates will be presented to the second-place winners. The first-place winners' design and slogan will be painted on the trucks this summer.

Ten entries may be submitted from each school, and principals will devise their own method of selecting those 10 entries. The 10 finalists from each school will be awarded a free lunch. The final entries should be sent to William Colburn, district business manager, by June 4.

Students should submit designs or slogans on paper 12 by 18 inches. Slogans only should be submitted on 8½-by-11 inch paper. Each project should list the student's name, grade, and school on the back.

High Court ruling to hurt parochial schools?

by KATHERINE BOYCE
Northwest suburban parochial schools that use some public-school services at no charge will be forced to find an alternative system under a ruling Monday by the U.S. Supreme Court.

In a 6-to-3 ruling on a Pennsylvania case, the court invalidated loans of instructional materials such as projectors or laboratory equipment to private schools and also said public schools may not provide them with free speech therapy, remedial reading or other special-service programs taught by public school teachers.

Many parochial schools in the Northwest suburbs have been making use of public school services for years and now will have to find another way to provide their children with special programs and instructional equipment in budgets already stretched to the limit.

Leo Athas, legal adviser to the Illinois Office of Education, said in his opinion on the ruling means that free use of public school services is no longer allowed but private schools may still be able to use the services if the school or the parents pay for them.

THE RULING, as it reads, would put the private schools "out of business," he said. The state board of education has been expecting the court ruling, said Athas, and it is already working on procedures for private use of public school services.

Our Lady of the Wayside School, Arlington Heights, is an example of one parochial school that uses public school programs. Children now attend speech-therapy classes one period a week at Park School across the street. The classes are provided to

Our Lady of the Wayside students free and teachers are paid by Arlington Heights Dist. 25.

If the public school can no longer provide the service "we would have to provide it or ask parents to transfer children to public schools," said principal Guy Bernacchi. The school does not have the funds to provide the service itself. "We just worked on our budget and we are out of money already," he said.

"I don't think the schools themselves are entitled to anything from the government," said Bernacchi, but

"I feel the parents have a right to services from the community." If a child needs psychological testing, therapy or programs for learning disabilities Bernacchi said he feels it is "up to the state to provide it" because parents support the public schools through property taxes.

Sister Connie, principal of St. Stephen School, Des Plaines, said, "We can't afford psychological services. It just couldn't be part of our budget." The parochial schools may now have to use volunteers for special services, (Continued on Page 2)

'$5 on $10,000 valuation'

Tax increase linked to welfare caseload

Palatine Township residents will pay an estimated 5 cents more per $100 assessed valuation next year because of increases in township welfare cases and youth programs in a budget that township officials say is the first to be balanced in several years.

Howard L. Olsen, township supervisor, predicted the 5-cent increase during a public hearing Monday night on the 1975-76 budget. The budget later was unanimously approved by the town board.

Olsen said the current tax rates of 16 cents per $100 assessed valuation will be increased to 21 cents next year. The increase would mean an extra $5 in township taxes per $10,000 assessed valuation.

"Hopefully we will end up in 1976 with cash on hand and we won't have to borrow on tax anticipation warrants," Olsen said. "We're prepared to take a little heat from residents to get on a cash basis again and avoid borrowing," he said.

SEVERAL AREAS in the more than $1 million budget will increase next year including allocations for welfare from $39,000 to $148,000. The township provides temporary welfare assistance to local residents and welfare applications this year have shown a dramatic increase, Olsen said. He said if the economy continues to improve, the township estimates it will spend only half the amount budgeted.

The township's youth committee — which directs The Bridge, counseling services and other social services — will receive $120,000 next year compared to $90,000 this year.

OLSEN SAID that increase is attributed to an increase in staff. Also included in the budget is an allocation of $120,000 earmarked for land purchase, but township officials said the money will not be spent and is solely an attempt to balance the budget to have extra cash on hand at the end of the year.

Only one resident questioned the township board of auditors during Monday night's meeting. Ann Scollay, former League of Women Voters observer of township meetings who said she was appearing only as an interested taxpayer, said the township has continually increased its tax rate and asked officials, "Isn't this the wrong time to attempt to balance the budget when so few people are able to do so themselves?"

Olsen answered that the tax increase is the only way the township can provide its present services and at the same time avoid borrowing at the end of the year.

Schools OK $52,000 for books

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 board members have approved a $52,000 package providing new textbooks for junior high school math and language arts and a new kindergarten-reading-readiness program.

Beginning this fall, kindergarteners will learn to recognize words by sight and sound using the Encyclopedia Britannica prereading skills kit.

Myrae Rundle, director of curriculum planning and development, said the kits were chosen because of their compactness and record-keeping system. Teachers can use the collection of games, word cards and exercises with single students, small groups or the entire class, she said.

JUNIOR HIGH school students will use Addison Wesley's "Investigating School Mathematics" by Charles Fleenor, Robert Elcholz and Phares O'Daffer beginning this fall. This series was adopted last year for kindergarten through sixth grade, Mrs. Rundle said.

"Investigating School Mathematics" combines more traditional arithmetic with the "new math" concepts popular during the 1960s, Mrs. Rundle said.

"This series is also interesting because the metric system is the only system taught in this series," said Marion Omletek, assistant superintendent for instruction. The district teaches metric and English systems of weights and measures in the elementary schools, Omletek said.

THE NEW JUNIOR high language arts series, "Basic Language Messages and Meanings" published by Harper & Row, Publishers Inc., also has been adopted.

"It creates a better balance between creative writing and grammar," Mrs. Rundle said. Mrs. Rundle also cited the textbook's "excellent testing program" which allows students to test out of subject areas in which they are proficient.

"The Creative Word" by Geoffrey Summerfield will be purchased as a supplementary text in language arts, Mrs. Rundle added. These texts will be used as an "inspirational tool," she said.

The administrators said the cost of the textbooks could be spread over five years, the expected life of a textbook. Books used in these subject areas are at least five years old.

'I am not a liar,' Loomer says

Race track chief defends credibility

by JOE SWICKARD
John F. Loomer, president of Arlington Park Race Track, vigorously defended the track's history of complying with contracts with the Village of Arlington Heights at a meeting Monday of the village board.

When pressed by Trustee Alice Harms for a letter of credit or the posting of money in escrow to insure the razing of wooden barns at the track, Loomer responded adamantly. "That's completely distorted. I am not a notorious liar. I am not a thief. And about the bond — that doesn't make any sense either."

The exchange erupted after attorneys for the track requested a special hearing next Wednesday to present a master plan for development of the property, including a proposed stadium for the Chicago Bears and a housing development.

WILLIAM MOORE, an attorney representing the track, said the master plan would encompass 10 to 15 years of growth.

Mrs. Harms questioned how well the track was following the timetable established in replacing the wooden barns in the backstretch area. She said she wanted the barn issue separated from the larger development discussions.

She said she was "more likely to put stock in a 10-to-15-year plan" if the barns were replaced on schedule. She later asked that the track post a bond in form of a letter of credit or an escrow deposit.

Lemaine D. Stitt, also representing the track, said, "I don't understand what you're saying Alice. Are you saying you don't want racing at the track this summer?"

STITT SAID ALL questions about the track's plans for replacing the barns and the development would be answered at the May 28 meeting. He said of the master plan: "The first thing that is going to happen is the old barns are going down and the new barns are going up."

He further questioned the request for the performance bond. "They're

When pressed for a specific timetable on the barns, Loomer then denied being a "notorious liar."

Mrs. Harms said, "I'm not accusing Mr. Loomer of being a liar." She said she wanted a history of performance upon which to base consideration of the master plan.

"Frankly," she said, "I cannot get interested in a master plan that goes 10 to 15 years ... without the barn information."

Trustee Richard Durava joined Mrs. Harms and said, "I have serious concerns about the rapidity in which the race track is rectifying an intolerable condition."

The board voted to table the barn question until the special meeting. Trustees Harms, Durava and Madeline Schroeder voted against the postponement.

The board also decided to tour the backstretch area of the track Saturday morning.

A RECORD HIGH temperature of 94 degrees was reported in Chicago Monday, breaking the previous high for the date set in 1963. Robbie Reichenbacher took advantage of the warm weather, dampened later in the day by a spring storm, to turn an ordinary stop sign into a dandelion maypole. (Photo by Dom Najolia)

A&P closing 7 Northwest suburb stores

Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. grocery chain officials, attempting to overcome a $157.1 million loss for fiscal 1975, are closing one-third of their 3,500 stores nationwide, including seven in the Northwest suburbs.

The A&P store at Campbell Street and Wilke Road, Arlington Heights, is closing this week, manager Steve Gaska said. A&P stores at Arlington Heights and Palatine roads, Arlington Heights, and at Devon and Tonne roads, Elk Grove Village, will close this month, he said.

"It is our intention to reenter the area with stores in the 30,000 to 50,000-square-foot range, stores with complete food departments," said J. Ellis McDaniel, real estate director.

The new, larger stores will include more brand-name products and an expanded range of non-food items.

FIRST OF THE new area stores is at Dempster Road and Ill. Rte. 83, Mount Prospect. Another recently opened at Golf and Dee roads, Maine Township. Scheduled to open in 1977 is a store at the Old Madrid apartment complex, Hicks and Baldwin roads, Palatine.

The Wheeling store at Dundee Road and Ill. Rte. 83 closed last week and the Schaumburg store at Higgins and Golf roads closed two months ago. The Palatine store at Robertson Road and Northwest Highway shut down last September and the Mount Prospect store at Ill. Rte. 83 and Northwest Highway closed in February 1974.

The Des Plaines store at Oakton and Lee streets has not been notified that it will be closed, a spokesman said.

McDaniel said he could provide no more information on other new store sites.

"I'm negotiating for sites. I can't tell you what my plans are," he added.

BILL BEDURSKI, owner of the Deer Grove restaurant, is retiring this month af-construction workers.

'Rush' slows to a walk

After 40 years of dishing up chow, coffee and conversation, Deer Grove cafe owner will hang up his apron and go fishin'

by DIANE MERNIGAS

Bill Bedurski is pulling out of what he calls the "human rush."

He has poured coffee and cooked meals for customers in his small, rural restaurant for 40 years. Deer Grove Corners, Dundee and Quentin roads, has been a meeting place for farmers and a lunch spot for construction workers for years and now, Bedurski says, "It's my turn to sit at the counter."

Bedurski has been running the truckstop-diner across from the Deer Grove Forest Preserve since 1935. The white frame building, one of the oldest businesses in Palatine Township, was first operated as a combination gasoline station, grocery store, ice cream parlor and tavern as early as 1910.

"All of this area was farms then. The campers and the picnickers from the forest preserves used to come by on the weekends," Bedurski said.

IN THE 1930s, when Bedurski and his brother began operating the corner store, the farmers would meet there early on weekday mornings. They would bring milk and crops in containers on horse-drawn carriages and load them on a truck, which would take the goods to Chicago to be sold.

"The farmers and us, we would talk about our businesses and the things going on in the area. But now, well now, the times have changed. The people come in here in a rush. They have schedules to keep. They don't talk about the simple things anymore. They have a lot on their minds."

"I used to know everyone who lived within a mile of here. Now, I meet new people and even the neighbors out here don't know each other anymore," he said.

BEDURSKI'S DINER has managed to endure many changes of time. Only six years ago Bedurski pulled out the gasoline pumps, closed the tavern and converted the place into a 7 a.m.-10 p.m. truckstop-restaurant "to keep up with the times."

Shopping centers and housing developments have replaced many of the nearby farms, and teen-agers instead of weekend picnickers fill the forest preserves.

"There just wasn't the need to offer the people around here all the things that we had because there were other stores in the area now," he said.

But many former Palatine Township residents who remember walking into Bedurski's place as children often return to the restaurant and find it and Bedurski virtually unchanged.

OLD FRIENDS still can find him standing behind the white, formica counter flipping hamburgers, his specialty, on the grill. Bedurski moves fast in his navy sneakers, refilling coffee cups and setting steaming plates of homemade beef stew or bowls of homemade soup before hungry working men.

"I like the work, but it gets me tired now. I want to do other things before I get too old," Bedurski said.

"This is no fancy place. There are plenty of those these days. But it has always been a place where people can meet and talk over a meal," Bedurski said.

He plans to send some of his free time fishing. "I love to fish. I guess I'll have a lot of time for that now. And I will come into this place when I can to talk with my friends and let someone else serve the coffee."

Specialized personnel

School district to add 11 positions

Eleven staff positions will be created by Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 this fall, said Paul Jung, administrative assistant for personnel and planning.

The additions will increase the district's teaching staff from 612 to 616 and will add several consultants and psychological testing personnel. Jung and William Colburn, business manager, estimate that $170,000 will be spent on the additional salaries.

The positions to be added are:

- One full-time guidance consultant. This will increase the guidance staff to three full-time persons.
- One full-time teacher to staff another center for the early childhood special education program. There is now one early childhood teacher at Central Road School, 3800 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows.
- A part-time nurse to increase the district's nursing staff to 11. The nurse will work in the new early childhood center.

- One full-time psychologist and one full-time psychiatrist. The psychologist will work with troubled or learning-disabled children while the psychiatrist will give IQ and psychological tests. This will increase the staff to two full-time psychologists and three full-time psychiatrists.

- Two full-time social workers. This will increase the staff to eight full-time social workers.
- A part-time teacher for the educable mentally handicapped. This brings the district's staff to five full-time teachers of the mentally handicapped.

- One full-time classroom teacher for the learning disabled, bringing the staff to eight.

- One full-time resource teacher and one part-time resource teacher to teach the learning disabled who need help in specific subjects. This brings the total resource staff for learning disabled to 19.

- One part-time language and speech clinician for the new early childhood center. This will bring the district's staff to 16 full-time and one part-time clinician.

- A full-time department of instruction staff member to prepare materials for teachers. This is a new district position, Jung said.

- One full-time art consultant for kindergarten through sixth grade. This will bring the art consulting staff to two full-time positions.

Jung said that none of these positions has been filled. No district positions will be eliminated this year, he added.

High Court ruling to hurt parochial schools?

by KATHIEUNE BOYCE

Northwest suburban parochial schools that use some public-school services at no charge will be forced to find an alternative system under a ruling Monday by the U.S. Supreme Court.

In a 6-4-3 ruling on a Pennsylvania case, the court invalidated loans of instructional materials such as projectors or laboratory equipment to private schools and also said public schools may not provide them with free speech therapy, remedial reading or other special-service programs taught by public school teachers.

Many parochial schools in the Northwest suburbs have been making use of public school services for years and now will have to find another way to provide their children with special programs and instructional equipment in budgets already stretched to the limit.

Leo Athas, legal adviser to the Illinois Office of Education, said in his opinion the ruling means that free use of public school services is no longer allowed but private schools may still be able to use the services if the school or the parents pay for them.

THE RULING, as it reads, would put the private schools "out of business," he said. The state board of education has been expecting the court ruling, said Athas, and it is already working on procedures for private use of public school services.

Our Lady of the Wayside School, Arlington Heights, is an example of one parochial school that uses public school programs. Children now attend speech-therapy classes one period a week at Park School across the street. The classes are provided to

Our Lady of the Wayside students free and teachers are paid by Arlington Heights Dist. 25.

If the public school can no longer provide the service "we would have to provide it or ask parents to transfer children to public schools," said principal Guy Bernacchi. The school does not have the funds to provide the service itself. "We just worked on our budget and we are out of money already," he said.

"I don't think the schools themselves are entitled to anything from the government," said Bernacchi, but

"I feel the parents have a right to services from the community." If a child needs psychological testing, therapy or programs for learning disabilities Bernacchi said he feels it is "up to the state to provide it" because parents support the public schools through property taxes.

Sister Connie, principal of St. Stephen School, Des Plaines, said, "We can't afford psychological services. It just couldn't be part of our budget." The parochial schools may now have to use volunteers for special services, (Continued on Page 2)

Welfare blamed for tax increase

Palatine Township residents will pay an estimated 5 cents more per $100 assessed valuation next year because of increases in township welfare cases and youth programs in a budget that township officials say is the first to be balanced in several years.

Howard L. Olsen, township supervisor, predicted the 5-cent increase during a public hearing Monday night on the 1975-76 budget. The budget later was unanimously approved by the town board.

Olsen said the current tax rates of 16 cents per $100 assessed valuation will be increased to 21 cents next year. The increase would mean an extra $5 in township taxes per $10,000 assessed valuation.

"Hopefully we will end up in 1976 with cash on hand and we won't have to borrow on tax anticipation warrants," Olsen said. "We're prepared to take a little heat from residents to get on a cash basis again and avoid borrowing," he said.

SEVERAL AREAS in the more than $1 million budget will increase next year including allocations for welfare from $39,000 to $148,000. The township provides temporary welfare assistance to local residents and welfare applications this year have shown a dramatic increase, Olsen said. He said if the economy continues to improve, the township estimates it will spend only half the amount budgeted.

The township's youth committee—which directs The Bridge, counseling services and other social services—will receive $120,000 next year compared to $90,000 this year.

OLSEN SAID that increase is attributed to an increase in staff. Also included in the budget is an allocation of $120,000 earmarked for land purchase, but township officials said the money will not be spent and is solely an attempt to balance the budget to have extra cash on hand at the end of the year.

Only one resident questioned the township board of auditors during Monday night's meeting. Ann Scollay, former League of Women Voters observer of township meetings who said she was appearing only as an interested taxpayer, said the township has continually increased its tax rate and asked officials, "Isn't this the wrong time to attempt to balance the budget when so few people are able to do so themselves?"

Olsen answered that the tax increase is the only way the township can provide its present services and at the same time avoid borrowing at the end of the year.

BILL BEDURSKI, owner of the Deer Grove Corners restaurant, is retiring this month after 40 years of flipping hamburgers and filling coffee cups for farmers, truckdrivers and construction workers.

'Human rush' slows to a walk

After 40 years of dishing up chow and conversation, Bill's ready to sit on the bank of a stream...

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Bill Bedurski is pulling out of what he calls the "human rush."

He has poured coffee and cooked meals for customers in his small, rural restaurant for 40 years. Deer Grove Corners, Dundee and Quenlin roads, has been a meeting place for farmers and a lunch spot for construction workers for years and now, Bedurski says, "It's my turn to sit at the counter."

Bedurski has been running the truckstop-diner across from the Deer Grove Forest Preserve since 1935.

The white frame building, one of the oldest businesses in Palatine Township, was first operated as a combination gasoline station, grocery store, ice cream parlor and tavern as early as 1919.

"All of this area was farms then. The campers and the picnickers from the forest preserves used to come by on the weekends," Bedurski said.

IN THE 1930s, when Bedurski and his brother began operating the corner store, the farmers would meet there early on weekday mornings. They would bring milk and crops in containers on horsedrawn carriages and load them on a truck, which would take the goods to Chicago to be sold.

"The farmers and us, we would talk about our businesses and the things going on in the area. But now, well now, the times have changed. The people come in here in a rush. They have schedules to keep. They don't talk about the simple things anymore. They have a lot on their minds."

"I used to know everyone who lived within a mile of here. Now, I meet new people and even the neighbors out here don't know each other anymore," he said.

BEDURSKI'S DINER has managed to endure many changes of time. Only six years ago Bedurski pulled out the gasoline pumps, closed the tavern and converted the place into a 7 a.m.-to-3 p.m. truckstop-restaurant "to keep up with the times."

Shopping centers and housing developments have replaced many of the nearby farms, and teen-agers instead of weekend picnickers fill the forest preserves.

"There just wasn't the need to offer the people around here all the things that we had because there were other stores in the area now," he said.

But many former Palatine Township residents who remember walking into Bedurski's place as children often return to the restaurant and find it and Bedurski virtually unchanged.

OLD FRIENDS still can find him standing behind the white, formica counter flipping hamburgers, his specialty, on the grill. Bedurski moves fast in his navy sneakers, refilling coffee cups and setting steaming plates of homemade beef stew or bowls of homemade soup before hungry working men.

"I like the work, but it gets me tired now. I want to do other things before I get too old," Bedurski said.

"This is no fancy place. But it has always been a place where people can meet and talk over a meal," Bedurski said.

He plans to spend some of his free time fishing. "I love to fish. I guess I'll have a lot of time for that now. And I will come into this place when I can to talk with my friends and let someone else serve the coffee."

A&P closing 7 Northwest suburb stores

Is the "friendly neighborhood grocery store" becoming a thing of the past in the suburbs? Story and photo on Page 9.

Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. grocery chain officials, attempting to overcome a $157.1 million loss for fiscal 1975, are closing one-third of their 3,500 stores nationwide, including seven in the Northwest suburbs.

The A&P store at Campbell Street and Wilke Road, Arlington Heights, is closing this week, manager Steve Gaska said. A&P stores at Arlington Heights and Palatine roads, Arlington Heights, and at Devon and Tonne roads, Elk Grove Village, will close this month, he said.

"It is our intention to reenter the area with stores in the 30,000-to-50,000-square-foot range, stores with complete food departments," said J. Ellis McDaniel, real estate director.

The new, larger stores will include more brand-name products and an expanded range of non-food items.

FIRST OF THE new area stores is at Dempster Road and Ill. Rte. 83, Mount Prospect. Another recently opened at Golf and Dee roads, Maine Township. Scheduled to open in 1977 is a store at the Old Madrid apartment complex, Hicks and Baldwin roads, Palatine.

The Wheeling store at Dundee Road and Ill. Rte. 83 closed last week and the Schaumburg store at Higgins and Golf roads closed two months ago. The Palatine store at Robertson Road and Northwest Highway shut down last September and the Mount Prospect store at Ill. Rte. 83 and Northwest Highway closed in February 1974.

The Des Plaines store at Oakton and Lee streets has not been notified that it will be closed, a spokesman said.

McDaniel said he could provide no more information on other new store sites.

"I'm negotiating for sites. I can't tell you what my plans are," he added.

New $8,000 water-system study urged

A more comprehensive Palatine water-system study, estimated to cost $8,000, was sought Monday night as a solution to the village's dwindling water supply.

Two village board committees — administration, finance and legislation and planning, building and zoning — requested that the consulting firm of Consoer Townsend and Associates, Chicago, provide water-usage figures and recommendations concerning anticipated stresses on the system as more developments are built.

Village Mgr. Anton H. Harwig described the preliminary water-system study by the firm as inadequate.

HARWIG SAID the study was nothing more than a compilation of data already available to the village. He said he wanted a study to coincide with proposed land usage and locations of possible deficiencies in the water system.

Since December the village has withheld a $5,000 fee for Consoer Townsend. Arthur H. Lewis Jr. of the engineering firm said it would take all summer to compile the additional information at an additional cost of about $8,000.

Lewis said there was an apparent communication breakdown between the firm and the village administration resulting in the unacceptable plan.

LEWIS SAID the preliminary conclusion was that the village had a surplus water supply, but that now with additional information, it appears that the village water system is not adequate.

Village officials had expressed concern that water distribution has been inadequate and that a plan was needed to see how developer-donated wells in the future will help ease the water problem.

Harwig said a comprehensive plan would be helpful in negotiating with developers in planning wells storage. Trustee James L. Shaw said, "This (preliminary plan) doesn't tell us how we can solve our problems or tell us what to do."

Trustee Bryan P. Coughlin Jr. said, "When I first moved out here 12 years ago, I could use all the water I wanted to. Now I have a hell of a time taking a shower at 7 in the morning."

OK sought for nine houses on 3.5 acres

Plans to subdivide a 3.5-acre site at Michigan Avenue and Smith Street for nine houses will be reviewed tonight by the Palatine Plan Commission.

The developer, George Anderson, will present plans at the commission's meeting at 8 p.m. at the Slade Street Fire Station, 117 W. Slade St.

$52,000 OK'd for language, math textbooks

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 board members have approved a $52,000 package providing new textbooks for junior high school math and language arts and a new kindergarten-reading-readiness program.

Beginning this fall, kindergartners will learn to recognize words by sight and sound using the Encyclopedia Britannica prereading skills kit.

Myrae Rundle, director of curriculum planning and development, said the kits were chosen because of their compactness and record-keeping system. Teachers can use the collection of games, word cards and exercises with single students, small groups or the entire class, she said.

JUNIOR HIGH school students will use Addison Wesley's "Investigating School Mathematics" by Charles Fleener, Robert Eicholz and Phares O'Daffer beginning this fall. This series was adopted last year for kindergarten through sixth grade, Mrs. Rundle said.

"Investigating School Mathematics" combines more traditional arithmetic with the "new math" concepts popular during the 1960s, Mrs. Rundle said.

"This series is also interesting because the metric system is the only system taught in this series," said Marion Omlatek, assistant superintendent for instruction. The district teaches metric and English systems of weights and measures in the elementary schools, Omlatek said.

THE NEW JUNIOR high language arts series, "Basic Language Messages and Meanings" published by Harper & Row, Publishers Inc., also has been adopted.

"It creates a better balance between creative writing and grammar," Mrs. Rundle said. Mrs. Rundle also cited the textbook's "excellent testing program" which allows students to test out of subject areas in which they are proficient.

"The Creative Word" by Geoffrey Summerfield will be purchased as a supplementary text in language arts, Mrs. Rundle added. These texts will be used as an "inspirational tool," she said.

The administrators said the cost of the textbooks could be spread over five years, the expected life of a textbook. Books used in these subject areas are at least five years old.

School district adding 11 jobs

Eleven staff positions will be created by Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 this fall, said Paul Jung, administrative assistant for personnel and planning.

The additions will increase the district's teaching staff from 612 to 616 and will add several consultants and psychological testing personnel. Jung and William Colburn, business manager, estimate that $179,000 will be spent on the additional salaries.

The positions to be added are:

- One full-time guidance consultant. This will increase the guidance staff to three full-time persons.
- One full-time teacher to staff another center for the early childhood special education program. There is now one early childhood teacher at Central Road School, 3540 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows.
- A part-time nurse to increase the district's nursing staff to 11. The part-time nurse will work in the new early childhood center.
- One full-time psychologist and one full-time psychometrist. The psychologist will work with troubled or learning-disabled children while the psychometrist will give IQ and psychological tests. This will increase the staff to two full-time psychologists and three full-time psychometrists.
- Two full-time social workers. This will increase the staff to eight full-time social workers.
- A part-time teacher for the educable mentally handicapped. This brings the district's staff to five full-time teachers of the mentally handicapped.
- One full-time classroom teacher for the learning disabled, bringing the staff to eight.
- One full-time resource teacher and one part-time resource teacher to teach the learning disabled who need help in specific subjects. This brings the total resource staff for learning disabled to 19.
- One part-time language and speech clinician for the new early childhood center. This will bring the district's staff to 16 full-time and one part-time clinician.
- A full-time department of instruction staff member to prepare materials for teachers. This is a new district position, Jung said.
- One full-time art consultant for kindergarten through sixth grade. This will bring the art consulting staff to two full-time positions.

Jung said that none of these positions has been filled. No district positions will be eliminated this year, he added.

Tree, sidewalk projects offered

Palatine residents can sign up for a program to share the cost of tree planting and sidewalk replacement on public property with the Village of Palatine.

The village will pay one-third of the cost of replacing trees in parkways and half the cost of sidewalk replacement.

This year residents must purchase and plant trees on public property, but will be reimbursed after an inspection by the village forester.

Robert Miller, public works director and engineer, said the village will let bids on trees for parkways this winter and if residents want to wait until next spring the village will plant the purchased trees at the same shared costs.

The village only will share in the cost of 2 1/2-inch diameter trees. Residents can choose between lindens, Norway maples, sugar maples, red maples, hackberry, ginkgo, Japanese pagoda, thornless honey locust, red oak, pin oak, tulip tree and Japanese zelcova.

The replacement of damaged public sidewalk will not start until next spring but residents who sign up for the program will have their sidewalks replaced first, Miller said.

Residents who want to participate in either program should contact the village engineering department at 358-7500, ext. 244.

High Court ruling to hurt parochial schools?

by KATHERINE BOYCE
Northwest suburban parochial schools that use some public-school services at no charge will be forced to find an alternative system under a ruling Monday by the U.S. Supreme Court.

In a 6-to-3 ruling on a Pennsylvania case, the court invalidated loans of instructional materials such as projectors or laboratory equipment to private schools and also said public schools may not provide them with free speech therapy, remedial reading or other special-service programs taught by public school teachers.

Many parochial schools in the Northwest suburbs have been making use of public school services for years and now will have to find another way to provide their children with special programs and instructional equipment in budgets already stretched to the limit.

Leo Athas, legal adviser to the Illinois Office of Education, said in his opinion the ruling means that free use of public school services is no longer allowed but private schools may still be able to use the services if the school or the parents pay for them.

THE RULING, as it reads, would put the private schools "out of business," he said. The state board of education has been expecting the court ruling, said Athas, and it is already working on procedures for private use of public school services.

Our Lady of the Wayside School, Arlington Heights, is an example of one parochial school that uses public school programs. Children now attend speech-therapy classes one period a week at Park School across the street. The classes are provided to

Our Lady of the Wayside students free and teachers are paid by Arlington Heights Dist. 23.

If the public school can no longer provide the service "we would have to provide it or ask parents to transfer children to public schools," said principal Guy Bernacchi. The school does not have the funds to provide the service itself. "We just worked on our budget and we are out of money already," he said.

"I don't think the schools themselves are entitled to anything from the government," said Bernacchi, but

"I feel the parents have a right to services from the community." If a child needs psychological testing, therapy or programs for learning disabilities Bernacchi said he feels it is "up to the state to provide it" because parents support the public schools through property taxes.

Sister Connie, principal of St. Stephen School, Des Plaines, said, "We can't afford psychological services. It just couldn't be part of our budget." The parochial schools may now have to use volunteers for special services.

Calls rising; police weigh service cuts

by TOM VON MALDER

Mount Prospect police are considering cutbacks in some services because of the rising number of non-emergency calls, Chief Ralph J. Doney said Monday.

"We want to do our best. We don't want to cut services, but it may get so that we have to," Doney said.

Police statistics for April show the department handled a total of 1,302 service and complaint calls plus 377 crime reports. A year ago, the similar figures were 1,005 and 344. Those are increases of 29.6 per cent and 9.6 per cent.

"I may have to take a strong, hard look at what services I might have to reduce," Doney said. The department does not have enough manpower to handle the number of service calls received and maintain traffic and crime patrol.

Doney said police response to accidents on private property probably would be the first to go. He said police also would only respond to fire or ambulance calls if requested by the fire department, rather than automatically.

SOME ANIMAL complaint calls also would be curtailed and residents might be required to come into the police station to file reports of thefts which have not just occurred, Doney said.

"I remember a time when you handled one or two calls on the midnight shift and it was a lot," Doney said. Now the night beat is as busy as the day beat in most instances, he said.

Another measure Doney said he would take, but only reluctantly would be reduction of training for policemen. "I may have to cut back the training of policemen so they are more available," he said, "but I don't want to have to do that because I think training is essential for a good police department."

Doney said he is considering several approaches, short of cutting services, to solve the problem.

For example, Doney said, the current rise in service calls meant less enforcement of traffic laws in the village and fewer hours spent trying to catch speeders. "We have to reduce

Crime rises 9.6% in April

Reported crime increased 9.6 per cent in Mount Prospect during April compared to April 1974, police department statistics show.

There was a sharp increase in burglaries from 11 burglaries and three attempts in April 1974 to 27 burglaries and four attempts and a corresponding decrease in thefts from 103 in April 1974 to 75 due in part to a change in crime definition, Police Chief Ralph J. Doney said.

In the more serious crime categories, as defined by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, 151 crimes were reported in April, an increase of 18 over a year ago. These crimes included 12 auto thefts and two robberies.

THERE WERE 226 reported crimes in the less serious categories, compared with 211 a year ago. The largest number of these crimes were acts of vandalism with 119 reported in April, but this was only three more cases than reported in the previous year.

"We're not trying to fool anybody," Doney said. "Crime is on the increase everywhere. I think nationally it's up 16 to 17 per cent. People have to understand the police are doing as much as they can to combat crime."

somewhere and the areas that I feel will be affected include traffic enforcement," he said.

DONEY PLANS to assign one policeman to traffic control to "key in" on speeders and overweight trucks. This policeman will be assigned to traffic trouble spots in the village, such as Euclid Avenue, the Elmhurst Road S-curve and streets in the Huntington Commons complex, Doney said.

field Township for the body of William Kottke, 24, who apparently drowned after falling from a canoe. Jones had been in the boat with Kottke at the time of the incident, police said.

Marine, 24, drowns in Beck Lake

by STEVE BROWN

An afternoon outing ended in tragedy Monday when a 24-year-old Marine drowned while boating on Beck Lake near Des Plaines.

Forest Preserve District rangers said William Kottke drowned after falling out of a canoe. Fire department divers from several communities worked into the night trying to find Kottke's body. The incident occurred about 1:45 p.m. Divers halted the search about 7:30 p.m. because of darkness. They will resume the work today.

Kottke was stationed at the Glenview Naval Air Station. Beck Lake is at Central and East River roads in Northfield Township.

He was apparently canoeing with four other servicemen when he fell out of the boat. Officials at the Marine headquarters declined to provide any information about Kottke until the drowning was confirmed.

Witnesses told Sheriff's police and forest rangers that the group had been in the lake for some time when the incident occurred.

KENNETH HIBBERD, 23, another Marine, said Kottke was in his canoe, but got into another boat with Max Jones when Hibberd went to shore to pick up life jackets.

Witnesses said Kottke was not wearing a life jacket. They told police he did not know how to swim.

While the Marines said Kottke fell into the lake, Eugene Gallagher, forest preserve district superintendent, said he was told the group had been swimming in the lake.

"My mounted forest ranger had been yelling at them from the shore for a half hour, telling them to get out of the water, and they did not listen," Gallagher said.

He said boaters frequently tip their boats to swim. Swimming is not allowed at Beck Lake.

He said the rangers check boaters to be sure they are wearing life jackets before entering the lake, but he said the group apparently left the jackets on a small island in the lake, which is about 200 yards wide.

THE INCIDENT was the third reported drowning at Beck Lake in recent years. In past incidents, divers have had difficulty searching the lake because the mud bottom limits visibility.

Divers searched for more than a week in 1972 for the body of a Glenview boy who tried to swim across the lake. Another man drowned there in 1973.

Forest rangers said the lake is up to 35 feet deep in some parts.

A&P closing 7 Northwest suburb stores

Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. grocery chain officials, attempting to overcome a $157.1 million loss for fiscal 1975, are closing one-third of their 3,500 stores nationwide, including seven in the Northwest suburbs.

The A&P store at Campbell Street and Wilke Road, Arlington Heights, is closing this week, manager Steve Gaska said. A&P stores at Arlington Heights and Palatine roads, Arlington Heights, and at Devon and Tonne roads, Elk Grove Village, will close this month, he said.

"It is our intention to reenter the area with stores in the 30,000-to 50,000-square-foot range, stores with complete food departments," said J. Ellis McDaniel, real estate director.

The new, larger stores will include more brand-name products and an expanded range of non-food items.

FIRST OF THE new area stores is at Dempster Road and Ill. Rte. 83, Mount Prospect. Another recently opened at Golf and Dee roads, Maine Township. Scheduled to open in 1977 is a store at the Old Madrid apartment complex, Hicks and Baldwin roads, Palatine.

The Wheeling store at Dundee Road and Ill. Rte. 83 closed last week and the Schaumburg store at Higgins and Golf roads closed two months ago. The Palatine store at Robertson Road and Northwest Highway shut down last September and the Mount Prospect store at Ill. Rte. 83 and Northwest Highway closed in February 1974.

The Des Plaines store at Oakton and Lee streets has not been notified that it will be closed, a spokesman said.

McDaniel said he could provide no more information on other new store sites.

"I'm negotiating for sites. I can't tell you what my plans are," he added.

Primary school levels

Letter-grading system reinstituted

Primary classes up to third grade in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 will return to a letter-grade system of report cards next year after several years on a narrative-type ungraded system of reporting student progress.

Intermediate Grades 4-6 will retain present letter-grading systems as will the junior high level. A section for specific teacher comments on student development will be added to the junior high school report cards.

The changes were approved Monday by the board of education after a one-year teacher study on modifying the report-card system.

The teacher committee studying change in the primary report cards decided to recommend a return to grades because the old card "could be vague at times," said Robert Clinkert, a member of the teacher committee.

CLINKERT SAID the new system "makes sure the teacher turns her attention to each item." He added that a similar type of grading system was tested this year at Sunset Park School and that parents there overwhelmingly favored such a change.

Primary grades will now receive grades of either G, S, L or U for Good, Satisfactory, Limited or Unsatisfactory progress respectively. The new system also will grade in several different areas of one subject.

For example, in math, the primary youngster will receive a grade in areas of effort and interest, knows and applies number skills, shows ability to reason and understand concepts.

A comments section also will be added on the primary cards with grade codes of C, O and R for Consistently, Often, and Rarely. The grades will be used to describe student progress under the main headings of work habits, social development plus attitudes and behavior.

Junior high school students still will receive traditional letter grades of A-F, but the card format will be changed to hinder students from changing grades. A checklist section of 11 areas of classroom conduct also will be added to junior high school report cards.

of the 160 reported accidents. In April 1974, there were 121 accidents reported with 14 persons injured in 14 of the accidents. In each April, there were two accidents involving police cars.

Doney attributed the increased number of accidents to good weather and more drivers.

POLICE WROTE fewer tickets for moving violations but increased the number of speeding tickets. Moving citations numbered 68 in April compared with 135 a year ago, while there were 259 speeding tickets compared with 164 in April 1974.

All but 15 of the April speeding tickets this year were the result of police radar checks and Doney said this was because the department now has the hand-held radar devices.

A total of 855 parking tickets were issued, down from 978 the previous April. Only 65 of the tickets were written at expired parking meters. Doney said he was "not bothered" by the decrease in parking tickets.

Police extras may go

dalism is another example of Doney's shifting men for a specific problem. But he said this extra patrol has been obtained by moving policemen from shift to shift.

"It's unfair to the men because they have to work at times when they were committed to do things in their personal lives," Doney said.

Doney said he is considering creation of a fourth shift for policemen on the street during the evening and early morning hours, when most vandalism acts and burglaries occur.

The vandalism task force this past weekend resulted in 11 arrests for curfew violations, Doney said. There were 12 reported acts of vandalism, including four "lawn jobs" and numerous broken windows.

"I think the vandalism crackdown has been very effective," Doney said.

Tamarack apartments vote tonight

The Mount Prospect Village Board will vote tonight on a controversial compromise which would permit 93 apartment units to be built at Tamarack and Palm drives.

Dozens of homeowners are expected to attend the 8 p.m. meeting at village hall, 112 E. Northwest Hwy., in support of a petition opposing the compromise. Joseph Taborek, 1114 S. Tamarack Dr., said Monday that more than 400 signatures are on the petition.

Mayor Robert D. Telchert said the compromise calls for the apartments to be built on the north end of the property, owned by Salvatore DiMucci Jr. The smaller southern portion will become a park. Use of the property has been in dispute for years and the courts ordered a compromise be drawn up, without specifying the details.

ALTHOUGH THE previous village board approved the compromise, Telchert said it has been put on the agenda again so that the four new trustees — one who lives in the area and one who used to live in the area — can vote on the issue.

High Court ruling to hurt parochial schools?

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Northwest suburban parochial schools that use some public-school services at no charge will be forced to find an alternative system under a ruling Monday by the U.S. Supreme Court.

In a 6-to-3 ruling on a Pennsylvania case, the court invalidated loans of instructional materials such as projectors or laboratory equipment to private schools and also said public schools may not provide them with free speech therapy, remedial reading or other special-service programs taught by public school teachers.

Many parochial schools in the Northwest suburbs have been making use of public school services for years and now will have to find another way to provide their children with special programs and instructional equipment in budgets already stretched to the limit.

Leo Athas, legal adviser to the Illinois Office of Education, said in his opinion on the ruling means that free use of public school services is no longer allowed but private schools may still be able to use the services if the school or the parents pay for them.

THE RULING, as it reads, would put the private schools "out of business," he said. The state board of education has been "expecting the court ruling, said Athas, and it is already working on procedures for private use of public school services.

Our Lady of the Wayside School, Arlington Heights, is an example of one parochial school that uses public school programs. Children now attend speech-therapy classes one period a week at Park School across the street. The classes are provided to

Our Lady of the Wayside students free and teachers are paid by Arlington Heights Dist. 25.

If the public school can no longer provide the service "we would have to provide it or ask parents to transfer children to public schools," said principal Guy Bernacchi. The school does not have the funds to provide the service itself. "We just worked on our budget and we are out of money already," he said.

"I don't think the schools themselves are entitled to anything from the government," said Bernacchi, but

"I feel the parents have a right to services from the community." If a child needs psychological testing, therapy or programs for learning disabilities Bernacchi said he feels it is "up to the state to provide it" because parents support the public schools through property taxes.

Sister Connie, principal of St. Stephen School, Des Plaines, said, "We can't afford psychological services. It just couldn't be part of our budget." The parochial schools may now have to use volunteers for special services, (Continued on Page 2)

Race track chief: I'm not a liar

by JOE SWICKARD

John F. Loomis, president of Arlington Park Race Track, vigorously defended the track's history of complying with contracts with the Village of Arlington Heights at a meeting Monday of the village board.

When pressed by Trustee Alice Harms for a letter of credit or the posting of money in escrow to insure the razing of wooden barns at the track, Loomis responded adamantly, "That's completely distorted... I am not a notorious liar. I am not a thief. And about the bond—that doesn't make any sense either."

The exchange erupted after attorneys for the track requested a special hearing next Wednesday to present a master plan for development of the property, including a proposed stadium for the Chicago Bears and a housing development.

WILLIAM MOORE, an attorney representing the track, said the master plan would encompass 10 to 15 years of growth.

Mrs. Harms questioned how well the track was following the timetable established in replacing the wooden barns in the backstretch area. She said she wanted the barn issue separated from the larger development discussions.

She said she was "more likely to put stock in a 10-to-15-year plan" if the barns were replaced on schedule. She later asked that the track post a bond in form of a letter of credit or an escrow deposit.

Lemone D. Stitt, also representing the track, said, "I don't understand what you're saying Alice. Are you saying you don't want racing at the track this summer?"

STITT SAID ALL questions about the track's plans for replacing the barns and the development would be answered at the May 28 meeting. He said of the master plan: "The first thing that is going to happen is the old barns are going down and the new barns are going up."

He further questioned the request for the performance bond. "They're (the track) there. They're not going anywhere."

When pressed for a specific timetable on the barns, Loomis then denied being a "notorious liar."

Mrs. Harms said, "I'm not accusing Mr. Loomis of being a liar." She said she wanted a history of performance upon which to base consideration of the master plan.

"Frankly," she said, "I cannot get interested in a master plan that goes 10 to 15 years... without the barn information."

Trustee Richard Durava joined Mrs. Harms and said, "I have serious concerns about the rapidity in which the race track is rectifying an intolerable condition."

The board voted to table the barn question until the special meeting. Trustees Harms, Durava and Madeline Schroeder voted against the postponement.

The board also decided to tour the backstretch area of the track Saturday morning.

Remember 'Camp Grenada'? These kids were there!

by BOB GALLAS

The science teacher had trouble with his ABCs and the softball player found out the hard way that right field was under four feet of water, but that didn't quash the enthusiasm of the students.

It was all part of outdoor education in Arlington Heights Dist. 25, which has added a new dimension to learning about nature—the overnight campout.

About 15 students, members of the district's gifted-student program at Ridge School and South Junior High School, took part in the recent campout, aimed at preparing the students to help teach nature lore to their fellow students.

The campers encountered their first problem soon after they arrived at Holiday Nature Park near Marengo, Ill.

ARMED WITH seemingly undecipherable instructions, the students, along with their embarrassed and frustrated teachers, wrestled for more than an hour getting their five tents up. Even district science consultant Frank Dzikonski couldn't get part A to fit with part B and had no idea where part C was.

But as always, science conquered in the end and with tents ready, the students began their day's activities.

Splitting into groups, some learned how to read a compass, making compass maps that would be used by fifth-grade Ridge students who were to spend the following day at the camp.

Others set out with live animal traps which they put out in hopes of detaining some small wildlife to be shown to classes the next day.

And a third group, under Ridge principal James Hall, took off downstream to study life along the Kishwaukee River that ran through the park.

"GO DOWN ABOUT four blocks," Hall shouted to the lead canoe as it cast off, pushed along by the steady current. Perhaps tempted by the beauty of the scenery, or maybe dazed by the adventure of a canoe in the

A&P closing 7 Northwest suburb stores

Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. grocery chain officials, attempting to overcome a $187.1 million loss for fiscal 1975, are closing one-third of their 3,500 stores nationwide, including seven in the Northwest suburbs.

The A&P store at Campbell Street and Wilke Road, Arlington Heights, is closing this week, manager Steve Gaska said. A&P stores at Arlington Heights and Palatine roads, Arlington Heights, and at Devon and Toune roads, Elk Grove Village, will close this month, he said.

"It is our intention to reenter the area with stores in the 30,000 to 50,000-square-foot range, stores with complete food departments," said J. Ellis McDaniel, real estate director.

The new, larger stores will include more brand-name products and an expanded range of non-food items.

FIRST OF THE new area stores is at Dempster Road and Ill. Rte. 83, Mount Prospect. Another recently opened at Golf and Dee roads, Maine Township. Scheduled to open in 1977 is a store at the Old Madrid apartment complex, Hicks and Baldwin roads, Palatine.

The Wheeling store at Dundee Road and Ill. Rte. 83 closed last week and the Schaumburg store at Higgins and Golf roads closed two months ago. The Palatine store at Robertson Road and Northwest Highway shut down last September and the Mount Prospect store at Ill. Rte. 83 and Northwest Highway closed in February 1974.

The Des Plaines store at Oakton and Lee streets has not been notified that it will be closed, a spokesman said.

McDaniel said he could provide no more information on other new store sites.

"I'm negotiating for sites. I can't tell you what my plans are," he added.

wilderness, the paddlers of the canoe went a little past the four-block limit.

Well over an hour later, Hall finally caught up with the boat and its occupants — four miles down river.

Meanwhile, a softball game had sprung up among the rest of the campers on the riverbank. The game was slightly marred when one participant attempted to make a running catch on a fly ball to right. The errant outfielder had forgotten that right field was in the river and he ended up in four feet of water — without the ball.

Evening and darkness brought on an astronomy lesson for the students, who still showed no signs of tiring, much to the dismay of their somewhat older chaperones.

HALL SAID THE campout was so successful he plans to make it an annual event at his school. Ridge students currently spend two days a year on outdoor field trips to study nature.

Hall also plans to require everyone to bring extra blankets to ward off early morning cold next year. This year, three female campers found a sleeping bag was inadequate to keep out 40-degree temperatures.

How did the girls solve the 4 a.m. problem this year? "They giggled a lot," said Hall.

Local attorney hired to show plan for track

by KURT BAER

A well-known Arlington Heights attorney and former village trustee, William J. Moore, has been hired by Madison Square Garden Corp. to present a development plan for Arlington Park Race Track that will include an 80,000-seat football stadium proposal.

Moore, 44, is scheduled to present the race track's master plan at a special meeting of the Arlington Heights Village Board May 28.

A financial feasibility report on the construction and operation of a major new sports stadium is included in the plan.

George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears, has said he will sign a long-term lease for stadium use if it is built.

MOORE, OFTEN colorful and outspoken, has represented numerous rezoning petitions before the Arlington Heights Village Board in recent years and is well known to village officials.

He is a partner in the firm of Stitt, Moore, Kearns and Szala, Arlington Heights.

Moore said Monday he has been working full-time for more than a week putting together aspects of the race track's master plan.

"We've been working with people here in New York and in Kansas City pulling this thing together," he said. "If I'm going in there (before the village board) I want to have a plan that I feel comfortable with."

A final decision on the May 28 date for presentation was made Monday, he said. "I wanted to make sure we'd be ready to go, and now I believe we could get started."

MOORE SAID HE thought Madison Square Garden recognized two princ-pals advantages in hiring a local attorney to present its plan.

"First, I think they get a more realistic sense of the community. And second, they'd like to avoid some of the things that have gone wrong in the past," he said.

Madison Square Garden, Arlington Park, the Richards Group and the Chicago Bears all should be represented at the May 28 meeting, he said. The Richards Group, an Oak Brook developer, is planning a large residential development for part of the 450-acre race track site.

"I would think that everyone interested or involved will be there," he said, adding, however, that he planned to do most of the talking.

IN 1961, Moore was elected to a four-year term as Arlington Heights trustee on the village's Caucus party ticket. He was chairman of the village board's legal committee for two years during which time the village code was modernized and redrafted.

In 1971, Moore represented a coalition of homeowners opposed to a low- and moderate-income housing development proposed for a 15-acre site immediately east of St. Vitor High School, Euclid Street and Dryden Avenue.

After Arlington Heights officials were sued for failing to rezone the Viatorian land for the low-income development, Moore offered to enter the case on behalf of the village. His offer was rejected by the village board.

Now a resident of Prospect Heights, Moore represents the Prospect Heights Park District.

$3,000 bond set in marijuana case

Bond was raised to $3,000 Monday for an Arlington Heights man who allegedly resisted arrest when police charged him with growing a marijuana plant in his living room.

Richard S. Boncella, 37, of 2410 Brandberry Ct., was being held in County Jail Monday when he was unable to post bond, set by Associate Judge Charles A. Alfano. Bond originally was set at $1,000.

Boncella was arrested Friday night when he called attention to a marijuana plant as police were filling out a report. Besides possession of marijuana and resisting arrest, he is charged with disorderly conduct. He is to appear in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court May 27.

State urges changes in lockup facilities

The Illinois Dept. of Corrections has recommended that the solid metal cell doors in the Arlington Heights police lockup be replaced with bar-type doors and that new toilets be installed.

The suggestions are included in a report following the department's annual inspection of the lockup. However, there are no reported violations of state standards.
